Board Delays Distribution Of Textbooks

Charges Against Rugg To Be Investigated Further.

The State Board of Education yesterday afternoon called upon its professional textbook committee to re-examine textbooks by Dr. Harold Rugg in the light of charges that the books espoused subversive doctrines, as was testified to yesterday in a public hearing at the state capitol.

In the meantime, the board will hold up distribution of the books.

After the have gone over the books again, members of the professional committee were instructed to report back their findings to the state board.

The professional committee previously had examined the books and placed them on the adopted list for use in the schools of Georgia.

Feeling Runs High.

Members of the committee are Superintendent B. M. Grier, of Athens, chairman; Superintendent W. W. Stancil, of Dalton; Superintendent M. C. Wiley, of Carrollton; E. B. Wheelchel, of the WPA emergency education program, and Warren Jackson, social science teacher at North Fulton High school.

Attacks yesterday were made upon Dr. Rugg's philosophies as more than 25 persons came before the state board, either to criticize or defend Dr. Rugg. Feeling ran high at intervals during the five-hour discussion, and members of the audience participated freely. The house of representatives was virtually filled with men and women interested in the controversy.

Sharp, sudden clashes between Dr. Rugg and Captain Jack Kelly, dismissed state patrolman who made the charges concerning the textbooks, came twice during the hearing.

Takes a Bow.

When Kelly rose to make his first statement, he pointed an accusing finger at Dr. Rugg and shouted: "There's the ringmaster of the Fifth Column in America." Dr. Rugg stood up, smiled and bowed to the crowd.

The former patrolman and once adjutant of the State Defense Corps, also charged that Dr. Rugg was financed by the Russian government, which Dr. Rugg vigorously denied when he took the floor in his own defense.

In his statement of defense, which was more than an hour long, Dr. Rugg said he was not a Communist, had never been a Communist and was not affiliated in any way with the Communist party.

"I have never received a cent of pay or a request for service from the German, Russian, Italian, or any other totalitarian government," he asserted. "I have done work for the great democracies of Australia and New Zealand."

LISTENING—S. W. Newell (right), manager of the Atlanta office of Ginn and Company, book publishers, cupped a hand to his ear as he listened to testimony yesterday at a public hearing of charges that books by Dr. Harold Rugg, adopted for use in Georgia schools, taught subversive doctrines. Sitting beside Newell is Dr. Rugg.

Gatins Is Found Alive in Nazi Prison Camp

Grandson of Atlanta Pioneer Was 'Missing' Since Fall of France.

(Picture on Page 8)

Joseph Francis Gatins III, 25-year-old soldier in the French army and grandson of one of the builders of Atlanta, has been found alive in a German prison camp, according to a cable received here yesterday.

When no word had been received from the young soldier for many weeks after the fall of France, both his mother, who lives in Paris, and relatives in Atlanta believed him dead.

Family attorneys, however, began efforts to establish his American citizenship in order to facilitate his release in the event that he was found in a military prison.

Born in Versailles.

Born in Versailles of an American father and a French mother, Gatins spent his early years here and received his education in France and England. With his mother, the former Egle de Sombriv, he spent the winter of 1938-39 at the Georgian Terrace hotel, which his grandfather built and of which he is part owner.

He returned to France shortly before the outbreak of the war and served with the 59th Infantry until the surrender.

Gatins is the grandson of the late Joseph Francis and Kate Thomas Gatins, pioneer citizens of Atlanta, and the son of the late Joseph Francis Gatins Jr., of Atlanta and Paris. He is the nephew of Mrs. Howell Jackson, of Middleburg, Va., and Ben Gatins, of Atlanta and Rumson, N. J. Atlanta relatives include Mrs. Julian Riley, a cousin.

Nationality in Doubt.

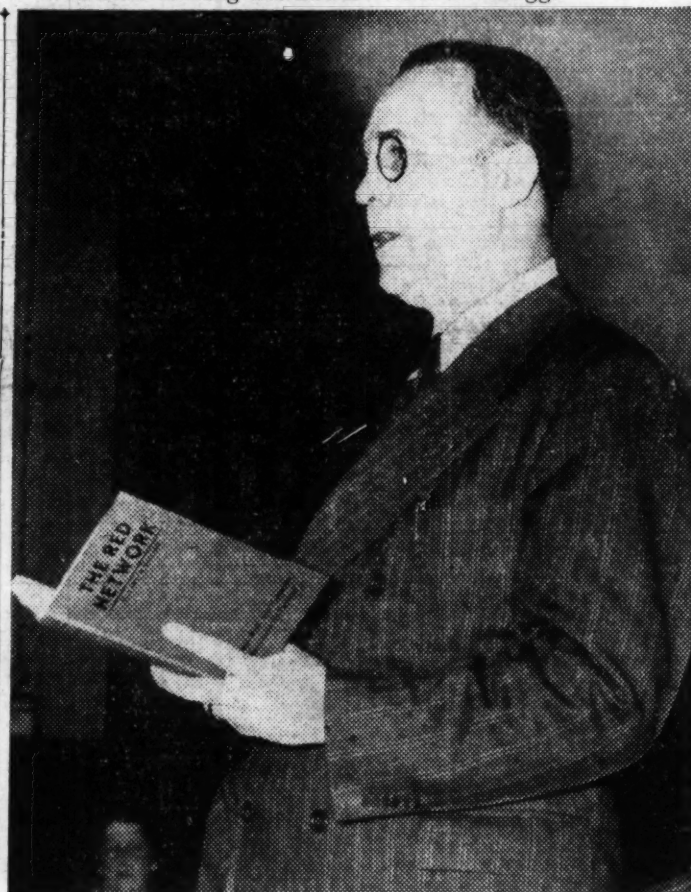

While he has lived the greater part of his life in France, attorneys have said that under French law minor children take the nationality of the surviving parent, in this case French, until their 21st birthday.

Before their 22d birthday, however, they have the privilege of choosing the nationality of the deceased parent. They believe they have ample evidence to prove Gatins signified his intention of following his father's American citizenship.

Time's Business Index Shows Better Conditions

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(P)—Time Magazine's index of business conditions advanced last week to 93.3 from 91.3 the previous week. An increase in spending in trade centers was largely responsible for the rise.

Time's index, based on money and banking figures, is designed to reflect changes in underlying conditions likely to affect the volume of business.

ATTACKS RUGG—A. L. Henson, prominent American Legionnaire, read from "The Red Network," a compilation of persons alleged to have Leftist tendencies, as he questioned the philosophy of Dr. Harold Rugg, textbook author, yesterday.

U. S. Minister to Norway To Campaign for F.D.R.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(P)—Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, United States minister to Norway, announced today she would campaign for President Roosevelt, adding:

"He stands head and shoulders above all others as the logical leader. The consensus in Europe is that it is inconceivable that the United States should change its national leader at this critical time in history."

Mrs. Harriman said she probably would make a speaking tour of the middle west between October 7 and 17.

France Blames Japan For Unrest in Siam

VICHY, France, Sept. 18.—(P)—A Havas, official French news agency, statement tonight indirectly blamed Japan for Thailand's (Siam's) demand for territorial concessions in French Indo-China.

The statement, published after the demand was rejected, said the Thailand move was the result of the growing strength of Thailand extreme nationalists "who receive certain part of their guidance from Japan."

Havas said the move was made to "exploit" the situation created by Japan's present attitude toward Indo-China. Japan has been pressing for the right to use French Indo-China as a base of military operations against China.

Germans Bomb Swank London Neighborhood

Nazis Shift Night Attack From Slums; Damage Widespread.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(Thursday) — Thundering tons of high explosives showered on battered London and suburbs last night and early today from a steadily increasing force of Nazi attackers who left heavy damage and a mounting list of casualties in the empire capital.

More planes took part in the raid—the 12th overnight attack since Germany began her "all out" assaults on London—than in the Tuesday-Wednesday overnight raid which caused heavy casualties.

British Blast Coast.

But, while the Germans dumped their bombs on London, British bombers were visiting destruction on German bases on the Nazi-held French and Belgian coasts in violent attacks against "invasion ports."

The German bombers caused great destruction in the slums of east London in the early phases of the raids. Now they have turned their attention to the fashionable sectors of the capital as well, subjecting them to heavy bombing.

In the latest punishing attack, coughing men and women stumbled from fashionable apartments after direct hits were scored by incendiary bombs in central London.

Big bombs were hurled at the metropolis from the north rim to the south, east and west.

Shopping Area Hit.

The shopping area, long the home of many of the world's famous fashion stores, was hit again and again by high explosive projectiles.

London's anti-aircraft gun barrage brought down at least two of the raiders—one of them a Junker 88, Germany's latest type of bombing plane.

The raiders violently strafed the center of London, dropping fat, blazing oil bombs in an effort to set fires in the city to guide them to their targets.

Coast Pounded.

Across the channel, the British bombers beat furiously at the Nazi-held French and Belgian coasts in the heaviest of all their long series of assaults on German bases, and the red in London's skies was matched by the flames of bursting shells and explosives which leaped high in the air on the other side of the water.

This latest attack on London began last night at 7:54 o'clock, after seven daylight attacks on this endlessly harassed city—a city which military attaches agreed already had withstood in recent weeks a greater bombardment from the skies that ever was loosed before, from Warsaw to Rotterdam.

British reports at 10 o'clock last night indicated that at least 46 German aircraft had been destroyed up to that time.

Early this morning the scene along the French and Belgian coastlines was one of scarlet fury—a leaping medley of light and fire from British bombs and parachute flares and Nazi ground guns.

During yesterday's seven daylight attacks here, the air ministry said, not a bomb fell in the city itself, although explosives killed an undetermined number of persons along the Thames estuary.

The mightiest of all the almost endless flights of daylight raiders never reached the city at all. It was broken up in a thunderous battle high over the Thames estuary by the co-ordinated counter-attack of British fighter pilots and the smoking anti-aircraft guns below.

Some 300 German planes were in this great wave, and it was noted that the Nazi bombers were extraordinarily outnumbered by their protecting fighter craft.

Mrs. Roosevelt Gives Reasons For Favoring Selective Draft

Says U. S. Thinking Must Be Changed in Answer to Questions About Conscription That Have Been Asked Her Since Issue Was Raised.

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT.

So many women and young men have written me lately about the selective draft that I think I shall list some of the questions that have come to me, and answer them as best I can.

I realize, of course, that this is a very unusual procedure for us, when we are not at war, to resort to a measure to which we have never resorted before in times of peace. I am not surprised that many young people are honestly troubled to see us do something which they feel can only mean preparation for aggressive war. Some people feel that we are providing a way that leads to dictatorship.

The answer lies in our own hands. We, the people, control our government and can prevent dictatorship and an aggressive war. It happens that we need little from other nations, so our temptation to go out and grab from others is very slight.

We have convinced ourselves for many years that if we minded our own business, there was no reason why anyone should want to attack us. Since we feel kindly towards the rest of the world, in return they must, of course, feel kindly towards us. This has been our reason—

Governors Ask Senate Moves South's Share For Financial Aid of Draftees

Resolution Warns Against Industrial Overdevelopment of North

A concerted effort to prevent other sections of the nation, from becoming "economic vassals" of a war-inspired industrial overdevelopment of the north and east was pressed further yesterday by the Southern Governors' Conference.

President Roosevelt and Chairman William S. Knudsen and other members of the National Defense Board were sent copies of a resolution adopted by the Governors' Conference deploring the present defense-born "trend in the expansion of our industries, particularly as it applies to new plants and new developments and a proper appreciation of decentralization on a long-range future program."

McDonald Acls.

Chairman Walter R. McDonald, of the Public Service Commission, as executive secretary of the conference, took action immediately upon his return with Governor Rivers, conference chairman, from the three-day session off Mobile.

"Despite the public position of the President and the apparent action of the defense council to co-operate with us," declared the resolution, "this conference has the distinct feeling, based on a careful and reasonable study of the operation of the national defense program update, that under the slogan of 'greatest speed,' the long-range benefits to the whole nation, from both present and emergency benefits, are being pushed into the background."

No Sectionalism.

It was emphasized that all merely sectional claims were being subordinated, and that consideration for both the south and the west was being sought solely on a basis of merit plus consideration for the development of the nation as a whole.

"Because of the impetus which the Civil War gave the north and east, through concentration of arms and munitions manufacture there," observed Secretary McDonald, "other sections for 75 years have been paying tribute to them. Georgia for that reason has been a 'raw material' state. We want to avoid this same mistake resulting from our present preparations for national defense. We are trying to foster real national planning on a long-range scale."

French Stamps, Coins To Bear Petain Likeness

VICHY, France, Sept. 18.—(P)—New stamp and new 5-franc (10c) coins bearing the likeness of Premier Marshal Petain are to be issued, the ministry of finance announced today. Present coins and most stamps bear the head or figure of "La Belle France."

Heavy Ballot Brought Out by Council Races

18,055 Atlantans Go to Polls for Third Time This Month.

Six of the seven incumbent city officials who faced the electorate in yesterday's run-over primary were defeated on the face of unofficial returns compiled last night by The Constitution.

Councilman Frank Wilson, incumbent sixth ward councilman, was the only one who weathered the storm as the "ins" were swept from office by Atlanta citizens.

Luke S. Arnold, attorney and former councilman, went far ahead of incumbent Traffic Court Recorder John L. Cone, as the 38 voting places reported. Arnold won by a vote of nearly three to one.

Arnold had 13,185 votes to 4,870 votes for Cone.

Mathews Wins.

Charles L. Mathews, former deputy city tax collector who resigned his job to offer for the position when R. A. McMurry, Mathews' chief, announced he would not offer again but would retire in January, won over George A. Cole, salesman.

Mathews had 10,879 votes, while Cole received 7,006.

Wilson had 9,328 votes to 8,584 for Alvin L. Richards, a former city alderman.

Veteran Councilman Charles L. Chosewood trailed James E. Jackson, attorney. Jackson had 10,815 votes to 7,130 for Chosewood.

Joe Allen took an early lead and was far out in front over Councilman E. A. Minor, of the second ward, with Allen receiving 12,648 votes and Minor listing 5,283 in his column.

Paul H. Butler, attorney, had a majority over Councilman J. Frank Beck, of the fifth ward. Butler mustered 9,281 votes as Beck polled 8,621.

Board of Education.

An all-man board of education was established as Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and Mrs. D. R. Longino Jr., incumbents from the second and sixth wards, respectively, were defeated by their men opponents.

Dr. Charles C. Rife had 10,195 votes to 7,769 for Mrs. Peterson, and J. Austin Dillbeck, insurance man, listed 10,071 votes to 7,825 for Mrs. Longino.

Arnold and Mathews led their tickets in the original primary September 4. At that time Arnold received 10,898 votes to 8,533 for Cone, and Mathews got 8,935 votes while Cole polled 7,400.

Chosewood, Beck and Mrs. Longino, however, led their brackets September 4, but their opponents came back to set aside what is considered to be a long-established precedent in Atlanta—giving the high-vote-getter the preference in runovers.

Chosewood had 9,036 votes September 4, while Jackson got 7,400.

Rivers, Stoddard To Discuss Draft

Governor Rivers and Adjutant General John E. Stoddard will meet at 1 o'clock this afternoon to discuss preliminary plans for the registration of Georgia youth between the ages of 21 and 35 for military service.

Although it is unlikely that the selection of a local draft board will result from the meeting, that subject will be discussed along with the possibility of using regular election officials in the registration task.

Meanwhile, General Stoddard announced that two more members of his state staff have been called to active duty. They are Colonel James H. Skelton Jr. and Major H. C. Hatcher. They will act in advisory capacities to state officials handling the Georgia draft.

where my books were cited as defenders of democracy.

"I defy anyone to find one word in any of the 14 textbooks I have written that teaches the pulling down of our American principles," he added.

He turned to Captain Kelly one time during his discussion and said he did not like to be called names, that calling names produced heat and not light.

Speaking of Kelly's charges that he was the ringmaster of the Fifth Column in America, Dr. Rugg pointed to Kelly and said:

Given Warning. "I have waived my legal rights once during this hearing, but if he says that again publicly he renders himself liable to prosecution."

When Dr. Rugg was questioned as to whether he had ever written for the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, he replied that he had not.

Kelly then took the floor again and displayed a copy of the Daily Worker in which a speech of Dr. Rugg was reported.

Dr. Rugg explained that he made the speech at a New York Herald Tribune conference and that it was reported in the Communist newspaper without his knowledge. He said Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt appeared on the same program with him.

"I have never written one line for the Daily Worker, and if you say I have, you lie," he said, turning to Kelly.

Clash Again. Later Dr. Rugg and Kelly engaged in another brief clash when Kelly angrily said to the Columbia professor:

"I have no time for you. Your trip has no place in the southern states."

Governor Rivers, who was presiding for Judge A. H. Freeman, chairman of the State School Board, interrupted by saying:

"Gentlemen, let's don't get personal."

Dr. Rugg attributed the present attacks on him, which he said had been going on throughout the country for the past 18 months, to the "sad state of social hysteria."

He declared that in the majority of cases his attackers took only half of what he had to say and discarded the other half. He explained that this was one of the most effective ways to tell a lie.

Tells of Background.

He dwelt at considerable length on his background, how he had worked in a cotton mill as a youth, how he had traveled around the world and seen the conditions that existed. He pointed out that swift changes were going on in economic life and that one of his principal objectives was to bring these things to the American school children.

A. L. Henson, of Atlanta, prominent member of the American Legion, was one of the first to accuse Dr. Rugg of Communist leanings. He read from "The Red Network," a collection of persons who allegedly have Leftist leanings, in attempting to prove his point.

Defenders of Dr. Rugg later pointed out that some of the most prominent persons in the United States are included in the same book, including Mrs. Roosevelt. Henson said that at one time Dr. Rugg had the opinion that a little group in Moscow was setting the world's greatest example of social betterment.

Crowd Applauds.

"If Dr. Rugg still thinks that group is making a great contribution, that philosophy ought to be kept out of our schools and out of our state," he said, and the crowd burst into applause.

Glenn Rainey, assistant professor of English at Georgia Tech, was greeted with angry cries of "Throw him out!" when he took the floor in defense of Dr. Rugg.

As women leaders on the front row heckled him, he said, "No one here seems to know just what Communism is."

"Hadden't we best make up our minds about Communism before we bring charges against a distinguished visitor to our state?" he asked.

Rainey declared that none of those who had spoken against use in Georgia of the Columbia University scholar's textbooks "had even read the books, in fact, all have stated they have not read the books."

Pleads for Right.

Rainey said he was pleading for the right, as a Georgia teacher, to be allowed to tell his students all phases of the world's political methods when he was asked by them for such information.

Jerry Burch, of Eastman, sprang to his feet, waved a finger at Rainey and shouted:

"Isn't it the method of the Communists to bore from within? That seems to be what you are doing. You seem to be trying to leave the impression that no one here is educated but you," Burch added.

The disturbance soon quieted

DENIES CHARGES—Dr. Harold Rugg, author of numerous textbooks, vigorously denied charges that he was a Communist as he took the stand yesterday to reply to accusations that his textbooks taught subversive philosophies.

DEFENDER—Professor Glenn Rainey, of Georgia Tech, turned to Governor Rivers, presiding officer, yesterday as he sprang to the defense of Dr. Harold Rugg at a public hearing. Rainey was interrupted frequently to answer questions.

Mrs. Roosevelt Tells Why She Favors Draft

ing, but new circumstances change one's thinking. Whatever the cause and the reasons, we have to face the fact that there exists in the world today a power. He believes only in force, he pays no attention to justice or the rights of other human beings and therefore other human beings must be ready to use the same force. We have watched nation after nation that was not equally strong, go down before this power. This power is not only physical, though physically it is strong enough. It has created many material things such as tanks, ships, airplanes, guns and ammunition, but it is also a power based on firing the imagination of youth with a belief that they are essential because they are creating a powerful state, one which will bring work and food and shelter and some measure of contentment to all the members of their "chosen race." Their belief is a passion and a religion because they are the instruments of service.

Offers Textbooks. "Dr. M. D. Collins was in a hot race, as some folks thought, and we heard these charges just a few days before election, although they could have been made several months ago," he said. Newell invited anyone to come to his office and get any of the textbooks in question and read them.

Two students made brief appearances before the board to urge that the books be retained. Al Crenshaw, Emory University student, said: "Why shouldn't we teach Nazism, Communism and Socialism? We should make our young people aware of these things in order that they may more fully understand the true meaning of democracy."

Dorothy Enge, Atlanta junior high schoolgirl, said she agreed with Crenshaw. J. Herbert Johnson, Atlanta attorney, said that in his opinion the textbooks did not teach Communism and added that "the real danger to democracy is the insistence that textbooks be written to teach us the things we like to hear."

Real Danger. Others taking part in the discussion included J. C. Seymour, secretary-manager of the Georgia Press Association; Mrs. E. Stewart, Americanism chairman of the West End Auxiliary of the American Legion; Dr. W. H. Holbrook, of Atlanta; Mrs. Carl Westbrook; Dr. C. G. Thompson, of Bogart; J. R. Smith, of Atlanta; Mrs. T. A. Henson, of Atlanta; Mrs. Virginia Heath, of Atlanta; Eugene Aenckelacker, of Georgia Tech, and Julian Baughm.

LeRoy J. Weed, manager of the New York office of Ginn & Company, introduced Dr. Rugg.

great in comparison with what we have ever had, will amount to a very small part of the general population, and we are not given to defying the military services.

In fact, I think we should revise our attitude in this respect. We are now asking young men to come into these services for our protection, and yet in many places, the soldier or the sailor gets scant welcome. True, they are sometimes accused of not behaving very well, and that accusation has sometimes been justified, but there is no reason in the world why we should not make the rule as we do for everybody else, that you are welcome until you become objectionable, and then and only, are you thrown out.

Can Be Controlled.

We put young men under strict discipline for weeks at a time and then give them leave, and high spirits are understandable enough. When it goes beyond that it can certainly be controlled. The boys who are good enough to die for us are good enough to rub shoulders with us in any place.

Here is a curious question. "Will the boys who are drafted and not put in the army have a better chance at jobs in private industry?"

No, I think under the selective draft system all young men will have a better chance at training in lines where work is really needed, which is something they have been trying to obtain through one avenue or another for some time.

Then there is a fear that military influence will become so important in the minds of the people that it will gradually seep into the educational systems of our schools.

Boards Competent. Of course, this may happen, but if we are aware of the danger, and we wish to keep our educational system free of military influence, certainly our boards of education are competent to deal with the problem. This is again a question of people taking enough trouble to control their own educational system and not to leave it in the hands of others.

I agree with the people, of course, who feel that just to give young people a year's military training and only to do it for a few, leaving a big group of young people untouched, is a bad thing. Any real program of national defense must face the whole problem of unemployment among youth and realize that everyone is entitled to training in trades, or industry, or professions, and in addition that we have an obligation to make our economic system work so there will be jobs for everyone when their period of training comes to an end. No scheme of national defense seems to me adequate which stops short with the training of young people and their use only in the one type of service. Again it seems to me that real national defense means the mobilization of the country as a whole, so that each and every one of us receives training and helps to make their community a better place in which to live.

Last Stumbling Block. seems to be what will happen to our social and economic system when the armament program is completed. What about profiteering under this program?

Well, I believe that we had enough experience in the days of

Must Have Liberty. Democracy must give them not only what the totalitarian states offer, but in addition, individual liberty; the priceless heritage of offering their service voluntarily and directing their own futures, rather than trusting to one hero and following him blindly.

This is well understood by those who write me, and therefore they feel that we need to recognize first of all that we have not met our obligations to the individual and given every citizen that which makes life worth living. Secondly, that he can only retain his dignity as an individual if he offers his service to the state voluntarily. Just as we have to face the fact that because of outside circumstances, we have to change our traditional attitude and build up our national defenses, so we have to face the facts of human nature. Hence my belief in a selective draft.

Wasteful Process. We should register everyone so that they will all have a feeling of obligation. Then in the various communities it should be left to a carefully chosen board to decide which people can best serve in different capacities, which of them shall obtain training this year in the army, navy, or any other military branch of the service and which of them shall serve in any one of a thousand different ways. If it were left to the volunteers some would volunteer for military service who would undoubtedly be better suited for something quite different. It is a foolish, wasteful process, this volunteering, and incidentally it lacks one essential element of democracy where everybody stands on an equal level and is placed where he or she can be most useful to the nation.

Another question—will we build up an army bureaucracy? No, I hardly think so. Even a large army, numerically very

Pee Wee Burns Charged With Tax Evasion

Federal Grand Jury Indicts Racketeer on Four Counts.

A. T. Jeans, alias Pee Wee Burns, Atlanta liquor and lottery racketeer, was indicted on four counts by a federal grand jury yesterday, charged with income tax evasion.

In December, 1938, the government filed liens totaling nearly $25,000 against Burns for non-payment of taxes.

Yesterday's indictment alleged Burns' income for the years 1934 through 1938 totaled $101,277.30.

1919 and 1920 to know that there are some pitfalls to be avoided. No individual industries must be left holding the bag and facing ruin when the need for great war preparation slows down. I think the government can control this by distributing loss and perhaps by planning ahead of time how to utilize in new ways both men and machines which are not needed for the production of armaments any longer.

We must take some risks with our money just as under the selective draft, some risks must be taken by young men with their lives. Profiteering, too, can be controlled, and it seems to me that all the hue and cry about not conscripting industry or property in the form of industry is rather curious. The government has always had the right, for the sake of the public good, to conscript whatever was needed, and in different ways this right is exercised now, in times of peace as well as of war.

This is simply restating that we are meeting a new condition and in peace time, because we recognize the fact that to safeguard as far as possible our young men, training is valuable. We bring into being a selective draft. Because of that same change in circumstances, we say that, if we cannot come to an agreement, and necessary materials which are part of the safeguarding of the men we put in the army are held up, the government shall decide on the proper compensation and shall not be obstructed in carrying out what it deems to be necessary to meet new needs in the face of new conditions.

But here again the principle of selectivity would work, she explained. The first married men to be taken would be those "like my boys whose families would not starve."

The Roosevelt's four sons, whose ages range from 24 to 33, are all within the draft age. All are married, except James, the oldest, who was recently divorced.

on which $514.80 in taxes had been paid.

Tax Returns Shown.

In 1934-35, it was charged, Burns filed no returns on a net income of $26,500. Tax due was estimated at $2,865.05, plus interest. The next year, he allegedly made $15,471.79, and paid $188.60 in taxes on a false return of $7,410. In 1936-37, his net income was estimated at $37,246.11. His return that year showed an income of $5,410, on which he paid a tax of $104.40. In 1937-38 Burns swore to an income of $7,420, and paid a tax of $221.60, while the government charges his net income for the year was $22,269.40.

Federal court records show Burns was given a 15 months' sentence in 1933 for violation of liquor laws, and was indicted in 1938 for a violation of the national firearms act. The last indictment was not pressed last January.

Long Record. Fulton county records show he has been indicted for bribery, assault and battery, assault with intent to murder, robbery, on lottery charges, for carrying concealed weapons and for violations of the state prohibition law.

The jury adjourned for a week yesterday after an active session that saw J. G. (Bugs) Glover, suspended supervisor of state prison forces, indicted twice for mail fraud in connection with alleged swindling activities; an indictment of L. R. Langley, former Cobb county agricultural agent for allegedly padding pay rolls of his office; Finch & Company, an Atlanta investment house, for mail fraud, and the indictment of W. Harris Fitzpatrick, assistant cashier and manager of the Citizens and Southern National Bank's savings department for embezzlement and making false entries on the bank's books.

When your boy becomes a MAN

YOU are confident that he will succeed in business or profession. But success comes slowly. What if misfortune comes first? Will he have financial assistance to tide him over?

He will have to learn much that is not taught at universities, before he will be a capable manager of property and investments. Will he receive his share of your estate too soon?

The solution to both these problems is a trust. If his share of your estate will be sufficient to meet his future needs, you can give him gradual access to the principal if you leave it in trust. If your present holdings will not provide enough, you can supplement them by life insurance and create a trust for your entire family; if you permit the trustee to apply the income and principal to the changing needs of the beneficiaries, all will be protected.

A combination of adequate life insurance and this Bank's protective management of your estate as trustee will make your family's future secure.

Fortune Poll Shows F.D.R. Gaining Votes

President Is Favored by 53.2 Per Cent in Survey.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—In seeking the opinion of the nation's voters first on President Roosevelt and then on Wendell Willkie, the latest Fortune Magazine survey of public opinion finds that 53.2 per cent favor Roosevelt while 35.6 per cent are for Willkie.

Here is how public opinion on Mr. Roosevelt divided in reply to this question in the Fortune survey:

"Which one of the following statements comes closest to expressing your own opinion of Mr. Roosevelt?"

"In times like these, it is absolutely essential to have a man like Roosevelt for President—26.7 per cent."

"There may be some reasons against having Roosevelt for another four years, but on the whole it is the best thing to do—26.5 per cent."

"While Roosevelt has done some good things, the country would be better off under Willkie for the next four years—22.3 per cent."

"The re-election of Mr. Roosevelt for another four years would be a very bad thing for the country—16.4."

"Don't know—8.1 per cent."

The Fortune Survey of Public Opinion then asked:
"Which one of these four statements comes closest to expressing your opinion of Wendell Willkie?"

"Willkie is just the man the country needs for President during the next four years—11.5 per cent."

"Even though Willkie hasn't as much political and international experience as he needs, he still would make a better President than Roosevelt—24.1 per cent."

"Willkie is probably an honest and capable businessman, but he hasn't the right experience to be President in times like these—36.1 per cent."

"The election of a man like Mr. Willkie would be a very bad thing for the country—9.4 per cent."

"Don't know—18.9 per cent."

"Here the margin opposed to Willkie at the time this survey was made is serious," Fortune points out. "Eliminating the undecided, only 43.9 per cent seem to be in favor of his election."

"The margin opposed to it, but in the number of people answering 'don't know'—10.8 per cent more than those having no opinion on Roosevelt—lie Willkie's chances to be elected."

Meanwhile, here is the geographic breakdown of Roosevelt popularity in this survey, eliminating "don't know" answers:

West South Central 83.3% Favor, 14.7% Unfavorable
East South Central 83.2 16.8
South Atlantic 80.5 19.5
Mountain States 56.7 43.3
East North Central 53.3 46.7
Pacific Coast 50.4 49.6
Middle Atlantic 48.8 51.2
West North Central 45.9 54.1
New England 41.4 58.6

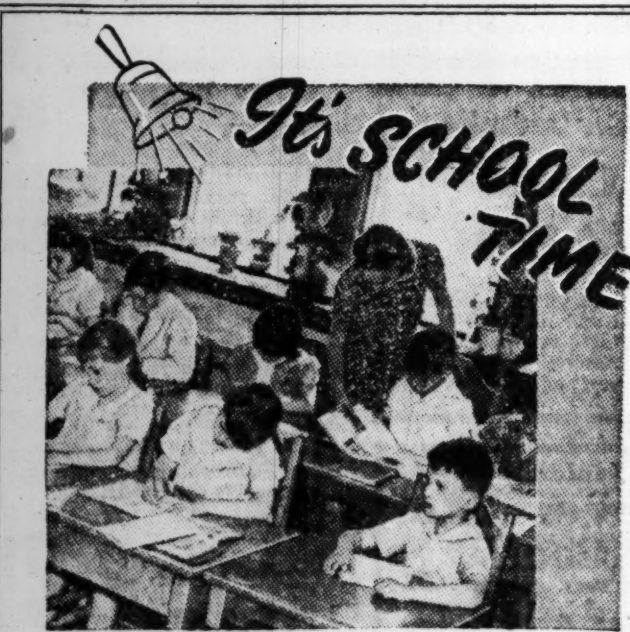

Army Leases New Field To Aid Pilot Training

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP) The War Department announced today it had leased nearly 1,000 acres of land for an auxiliary airfield near Montgomery, Ala.

The field will be used as an auxiliary field in connection with the pilot training program at the southeast air corps training center at Maxwell field, Ala.

Newsman Sees F. D. R. Victory In November

Capital Correspondents Give President 2-to-1 Odds.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Coming on the heels of the latest Gallup poll showing impressive gains for President Roosevelt in the eastern tier of states, a survey made public here today by a national magazine reveals that Mr. Roosevelt is better than a 2-to-1 favorite to win the November election, in the opinion of 50 seasoned Washington correspondents whose views were sought on the campaign.

The survey, conducted by the magazine Newsweek, was undertaken some days before the recent Gallup poll figures showed President Roosevelt now to be leading in the three important states of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Their transfer from the Willkie column to that of the President's gives Mr. Roosevelt 346 electoral votes to 185 for the Republican candidate. A majority is 266.

Of the 50 correspondents polled by Newsweek, 34 picked Roosevelt as the probable winner, while only 16 picked Willkie. Thus the 2-to-1 ratio.

The average of the forecasts of the 50 writers was that Roosevelt will get 312 electoral votes and Willkie 219. Oddly enough, this is not far from the revised Gallup estimates.

Salvation Army Delegates To Meet in Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 18.—(AP)—About 500 delegates from several Salvation Army young people's councils in the southeastern states are expected to attend a four-day session here starting September 27. Major H. W. Young said today.

Major Young, who is young people's divisional secretary, said delegates from Florida, southern South Carolina and southeastern Georgia are expected.

TERROR BY NIGHT—As conceived by a German flyer-artist. Murderous Nazi bombers dominate a sky lighted by stabbing British searchlights and studded with shellbursts. The artist, Alfred Dudda, reported witnessing this scene during a night raid on a British industrial area. Released by the Nazi censor and radioed from Berlin.

GRIM AFTERMATH—Smoke billows in a great cloud from the target of Nazi bombers, in a German drawing of destruction wrought on an English armament plant. Karl Sommer, a Nazi flyer-artist, penciled sketches for the drawing during a raid by Stuka bombers supported by a Messerschmitt fighter. Passed by Nazi censor and radioed from Berlin.

Wylie West Named On Postal Group

Wylie West, Decatur postmaster, has been appointed on the transportation committee in conjunction with the convention of the National Association of Postmasters to be held September 25-28 at Columbus, Ohio.

West was named by Charlotte (N. C.) Postmaster Paul R. Youngs, president of the association, which is comprised of postmasters from every state and territory with a total membership of 28,000 men and women.

Georgia postmasters expecting to attend the meeting are: L. J. McPhaul, Doerum, W. M. Denton, Dalton; C. E. Flannery, Swainboro; Mrs. Rosa Lindsey, Irwinton; Mrs. Nell Raley, Mitchell; Mrs. Norma Hayes, Elberton; C. H. Orr, Washington; O. N. Rubin, Davisboro; A. B. Economic Need Is as Vital as Arms-Willkie

We Must Rehabilitate Nation in This Trying Time, He Warns.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 18.—(AP) Rehabilitation of domestic economy is as vital as building a strong national defense, Wendell L. Willkie declared today during a brief stop on an airplane flight from Albuquerque, N. M., to Los Angeles.

The Republican presidential nominee told a crowd estimated by Police Captain E. W. Tittel at 15,000 that he possessed the experience to bring about a revitalized economic situation.

"We must build a force of airplanes and armament so strong that no dictator will dare to strike," Willkie said. "But that will not be adequate to carry America through this trying time. We must rehabilitate our domestic economy."

If there were a choice between the building of national defense and domestic economic revitalization, Willkie said he would place his faith in the latter.

The crowd cheered when the nominee criticized the federal purchase of Argentine beef, which has been vigorously opposed by Arizona.

F.D.R. Returns To the Capital; Readies Speech

Jesse Jones To Be Inducted as Secretary Today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(UP) President Roosevelt returned to the capital today to check on progress of the defense drive and to complete work on an address to be delivered at Philadelphia Friday afternoon which apparently will be the second major speech of his third-term campaign.

Together with several high administration officials and personal advisers, Mr. Roosevelt was absent 45 hours, attending funeral services at Jasper, Ala., for the late Speaker William B. Bankhead.

Only important event on his official schedule before leaving for Philadelphia, either Thursday night or Friday morning, was swearing in of Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones as secretary of commerce tomorrow.

Jones will take his oath as the newest cabinet member in a formal White House ceremony.

The President is expected to devote most of his remaining time here to working on his speech, as he did on the train coming back from Alabama.

Late Type Nazi Bomber Shot Down in London
LONDON, Sept. 19.—(Thursday)—(AP)—One of Germany's latest type bombers—a huge Junkers 88—was shot down by anti-aircraft guns early today during the overnight raid on London and fell on the house occupied by Walter Grabner, head of the London office of Time and Life magazines.

The anti-aircraft guns also were reported to have brought down another raider—it's type not given—in Hyde Park.

Willkie Backed By N. Y. Times For Presidency

Republican Nominee Is 'Better Equipped,' Newspaper Says.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The New York Times tonight announced its support of Wendell L. Willkie for the presidency, the first time it has backed a Republican candidate since 1908.

In a three-column editorial, the Times, which describes itself as Independent-Democratic, said:

"We give our own support to Mr. Willkie primarily for these reasons: Because we believe that he is better equipped than Mr. Roosevelt to provide this country with an adequate defense; because we believe he is a practical liberal who understands the need of increased production; because we believe that the fiscal policies of Mr. Roosevelt have failed disastrously; because we believe that at a time when the traditional safeguards of democracy are falling everywhere it is particularly important to honor and preserve the American tradition against vesting the enormous powers of the presidency in the hands of any man for three consecutive terms of office."

The newspaper supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936.

Georgia Urged To Keep Patrol Free of Politics

Police Chiefs Address Resolution to General Assembly.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 18.—(AP) Police chiefs of Georgia want the State Department of Public Safety "kept out of politics" and today addressed a resolution to the general assembly, statehouse officers and the chief executive urging safeguards for the organization.

Delegates at the state convention here cited the record of the department since its organization as "free of politics" in support of their plea that the department "should be kept free of politics in the future."

Speakers today stressed the increasing responsibility of municipal officials in the event of a national emergency.

Mayor Bob McWhorter, of Athens, declared preparations for the national defense would place unusual responsibilities upon city governments.

"An efficient local police, directed by radio and keeping modern records, are needed not only to safeguard the community, but to preserve the seed of a future democracy," McWhorter said. "A well-manned, well-equipped, efficient, adequately paid police department is one of the strongest bulwarks of democracy and the surest guarantee for the continuation of democratic government."

State Safety Commissioner Lon Sullivan asserted that "the federal government has informed us that in the event of an emergency endangering the security of this nation, it will be up to the city, county and state authorities to furnish protection for the vital points within the state." Sullivan outlined some of the job confronting the officials.

Several other speakers addressed the convention, including R. G. Danner, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Atlanta.

King Henry VI of England assumed the title of "Excellent Grace" in the year 1425.

ELKS OFFICIAL HONORED—Roderick M. McDuffie (right), recently appointed district deputy for western Georgia, was honored at a banquet last night by East Point Elks' Lodge, at which Judge John S. McClelland (left), presented him with the jewel of office.

Fire Prevention Week Designated by President

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP) President Roosevelt today designated the seven days beginning October 6 as fire prevention week.

A presidential proclamation urged civic leaders and the press to co-operate in promoting "discussions and measures of action that will lead to the prompt elimination of fire hazards."

R. M. McDuffie Is Honored at Elks' Banquet

Jewel of Office Presented to Youngest District Deputy in U. S.

Roderick M. McDuffie, recently appointed as Elks' district deputy for western Georgia, was honored at a banquet last night given by East Point lodge No. 1617 in the lodge home.

Highlight of the affair was presentation of the jewel of office by Judge John S. McClelland, past chairman of the board of trustees of the Grand Lodge of Elks.

William Mount, exalter ruler of East Point lodge, presided.

McDuffie, at 37, is the youngest district deputy in the United States. His rise in Elksdom has been rapid, as the East Point lodge was organized in March, 1939. He is a past exalted ruler of East Point lodge. He lives in East Point and is a deputy clerk of Fulton superior court.

His duties as district deputy will take him to the following Elks' lodges: Rome, East Point, LaGrange, Griffin, Newnan, Albany, Americus, Dalton, Macon, Gainesville, Decatur, Thomasville and this city.

Three Robbery Suspects Held in Fulton Tower

Three Negro men charged with robbing a Peachtree road fruit stand of $68 on September 10 were being held in Fulton tower yesterday in default of bonds of $1,000 each.

They were listed as Tom Spruel, Nathaniel Spivey and New Brown. The first two were arrested by county police near Thomaston, Ga., and the third was arrested in south Fulton county, according to Policeman John T. Carter.

Wanted-REGULAR RIDERS

We Still Have A Number Of Choice Vacant Seats On Most Inbound Buckhead Trackless Trolleys Arriving In Town Between 7:30 A. M. And 9 A. M.

Wanted—Passengers to fill a number of vacant seats on inbound Buckhead and Oglethorpe trackless trolleys reaching town during the morning rush hours. Business men and women of steady riding habits preferred.

IT'S a fact! There actually are more seats than passengers to fill them. On inbound Buckhead and Oglethorpe trackless trolleys reaching town between 7:30 a. m. and 9 a. m., at just the time of day you need a ride to work.

As an illustration—on Friday, September 13, 12 trolleys reached Peachtree and Baker Streets during the half-hour between 7:30 a. m. and 8 a. m. They had seating capacity for 540 people, but they carried only 404. Between 8 and 8:30 there were 14 trolleys having seating capacity for 630 passengers, but carrying only 501. Between 8:30 and 9 there were six trolleys having seats for 270, carrying only 152.

On the preceding day, Thursday, September 12, there were 362 riders reaching town between 7:30 and 8, with 540 seats available. During the next half-hour, 562 passengers had 630 seats at their disposal; between 8:30 and 9 there were 134 passengers and 270 seats.

On Tuesday, September 10, the figures were: 7:30 to 8, 377 passengers, 540 seats; 8 to 8:30, 511 passengers, 540 seats; 8:30 to 9, 377 passengers, 360 seats.

The figures are for three typical week days. The same thing, in general, is true on all other week days. On the average, we have about one-third more seats than riders on trolleys reaching town during the morning rush hours—the very busiest time of day.

To residents of the Peachtree Road section this means:

Not only do you have the newest, most modern vehicles in Atlanta for your use; the only express service on a city line at a city fare; transportation unexcelled in speed, comfort and convenience, but also

In quantity, as well as in quality, your service is all you could reasonably want. To speak plainly, the overwhelming probability is that you will get a seat on any Buckhead trackless trolley you board inbound in the morning rush hours.*

Won't you give us a trial and see how good this service is?

*This does not mean that we can guarantee you a seat on every trackless trolley. The trolleys sometimes are delayed, get off schedule, carry standing passengers.

Incumbents Defeated in Runover Tests

316; Beck received 10,226 votes for 4,891 for Butler, and Mrs. Longino polled 9,555 votes to 7,141 for Dillbeck.

The other winners led their brackets in the first primary.

Political sages were surprised at the heavy balloting late in the day and 18,055 votes had been counted in the recorder's race.

Early predictions were that the balloting would be about 11,000 votes, but later in the day this figure was revised to from 12,000 to 14,000.

A total of 36,234 Atlantans were qualified to vote in all eight brackets, and about 21,000 cast ballots in the original primary held September 4, just two weeks ago.

Third Time to Vote. Observers based their predictions of a light vote on the fact that the citizens voted in the city primary, September 4, then a week later visited the polls to cast ballots in the state primary, September 11, and yesterday were called again to the ballot boxes.

An awakened interest in the conduct of the municipality for the next four years was believed to have stimulated the relatively heavy vote yesterday.

Winners in yesterday's races were generally conceded to have had the support of Mayor-elect LeCraw and his organization, though no public statement ever was made by the mayor-elect in behalf of any candidacy other than his own. He defeated incumbent Mayor Hartford in the September 4 primary by a majority of 111 votes.

Hartfield cast his ballot yesterday and then left by plane for New York to attend the annual convention of the United States Mayors' Conference which opens here this morning.

Official Count Today. Seab Sharp, chairman of the city Democratic executive committee, called managers and clerks and members of the committee into session for noon today in the city council chamber to consolidate the tabulations and to declare results.

Sharp and L. Glenn Dewberry, committee secretary, yesterday drove around the city visiting the precincts and assisting other committee members in keeping the voting running smoothly.

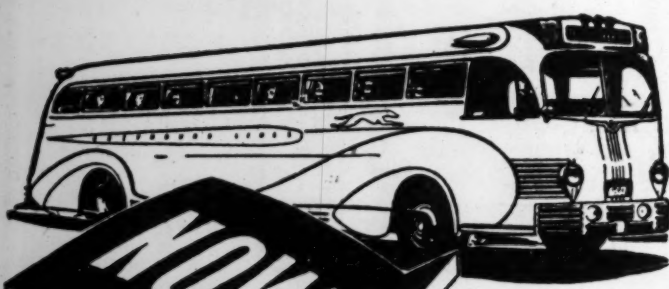

They reported they found no disorder at any of the polls, and said the runover seemed to be operating without confusion.

Fire engines are said to have been invented in 250 B. C. by Ctesibius.

12 Million Bale Cotton Quota Is Set by Wickard

Growers' Referendum for 1941 Crop To Be Held December 7.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP) Secretary of Agriculture Wickard proclaimed a national marketing quota for cotton of 12,000,000 bales for 1941, subject to approval of growers voting in a referendum December 7.

To become operative, the quotas must be approved by two-thirds of the producers voting.

The quota is the same as that established, and approved, on the 1938, 1939 and 1940 crops.

Such a quota, Wickard said, would permit planting of about 27,900,000 acres to cotton. This acreage would be apportioned among individual growers on the basis of a formula set up in the 1938 agricultural adjustment act.

Growers "could be permitted to sell all they produced on the acreage allotments. Cotton grown on acreages in excess of the allotments would be subject to a penalty tax of 3 cents a pound.

Home Bombed, Briton Averages With Own Raid

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A British pilot who bombed Boulogne last night dove to 200 feet to make sure he had done his work well, air ministry sources said tonight.

His London home had been demolished a few nights before by German bombers. The pilot reported with satisfaction that barges and other "invasion ships" were hit and that he could see the flames from them for 20 miles.

O'Connor Fails In Comeback By 2-to-1 Vote

New Deal Faction of Labor Party Leads in New York.

By The Associated Press.
Republicans polled more votes than the combined total of Progressive and Democratic candidates in Tuesday's gubernatorial primary in Wisconsin, while a New Deal faction of the American Labor party led so-called "left-wing" candidates in 53 of 94 legislative and congressional contests in New York.

The New York voting not only brought a New Deal test of strength in the American Labor party, but it also saw an unsuccessful attempt of John J. O'Connor, anti-Roosevelt Democrat, to win nomination for congress on

Scout Enrollment Has Big Increase

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
LAGRANGE, Ga., Sept. 18.—The Boy Scout enrollment in the Chattahoochee area has more than trebled during the past decade, Scout Executive Grady Bradshaw has reported to the executive board of the area council. On September 1, 1940, registered Boy Scouts numbered 1,133, compared with 335 in 1930. The area includes Troup, Heard, Meriwether and a portion of Harris counties, in Georgia, and Chambers and Randolph counties, in Alabama. Registration by districts at present is as follows: Chattahoochee Valley, 582; LaGrange, 327; Meriwether, 123; Randolph, 101.

"For fast relief from HEADACHE—use Liquid CAPUDINE"

Liquid CAPUDINE

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH

With Little Worry
Eat, talk, laugh or sneeze without fear of insecure false teeth dropping, slipping or wobbling. FASTEETH holds plates firmer and more comfortably. This pleasant powder has no gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Doesn't cause nausea. It's alkaline (non-acid). Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.—(adv.)

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour 2 pints of bile into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10¢ and 25¢.

FREE-IF ITCHY SKIN NOT EASED IN FIVE MINUTES

If Tetterine doesn't relieve skin itching due to Eczema, Ringworm, Surface Rash, Athlete's Foot, Scabies or insect bites, it costs you nothing. Get Tetterine from any drug store (or direct from Shupine Co., Dept. 3, Savannah, Ga.) for 60¢, use as directed, and if itching is not relieved in five minutes, keep the box and get your 60¢ back to boot. (adv.)

Acronizing HEADACHES RELIEVED IN A HURRY

"AC" works fast. Promptly soothes nervous disturbance caused by headache and eases minor aches and pains. Always use as directed on package. Consult a physician when pain persists.

IF YOUR MIRROR SAYS PIMPLES

Don't just dream about having a lovely skin. Help make your dreams of complexion-beauty come true! Use Cuticura Soap and Ointment—a highly recommended, reliable way to help obtain clear, clear, naturally lovely skin. Buy Cuticura today.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. There poisons start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

THESE AMERICAS OF OURS

This Western Hemisphere—last stronghold of democracy and free peoples—will be defended as a unit from totalitarian aggression. The twenty-one Pan-American republics, plus the Dominion of Canada, are taking rapid steps to unify their defense plans. Students in our schools—and all grown-ups too—should know as much as possible about the history of the Western Hemisphere and the countries of the Pan-American Union.
Available from this newspaper's Service Bureau at Washington is the unique PAN-AMERICAN HISTO-GRAPH—a complete condensed history in graphic form (in colors) of the settlement and changes in government and boundaries of all of the American republics of North and South America.

Former Follies Girl Succumbs To Pneumonia

Jessie Reed, Once Most Glamorous of Ziegfeld Beauties, Was 43.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Jessie Reed, who once was hailed as the most glamorous girl in Florenz Ziegfeld's bevy of beauties, relinquished her role in life's drama today.

She died of bronchial pneumonia at the age of 43.

During the so-called "Golden Era," she was known as one of the highest paid of Ziegfeld's show girls.

Miss Reed danced in the "Follies" for the last time in 1924. Since then she slipped gradually into relative obscurity.

Her name bobbed back into print in 1935. Reporters found her in a North Side rooming house. She was contemplating an application to the relief commission for aid.

Published stories brought her engagements in a Loop theater and night clubs.

Last August she entered a hospital. Blood transfusions gave her a new lease on life. She had improved until she contracted pneumonia recently.

Miss Reed was married five times. Her husbands were Leonard M. Reno, World War flyer and advertising man; "Dashing Dan" Caswell; William T. Young, Indianapolis advertising executive; Ollie DeBrow, and Lew Reed, an actor.

A woman friend reported that she would make arrangements for the funeral.

FOLLIES GIRL DIES—Jessie Reed, at one time one of the highest paid show girls in the world, died in Chicago yesterday. She was relatively unknown.

administration had agreed to study a proposal to build a new road from Savannah to the airport. Bouhan said the two-and-one-half mile stretch, for which the attorneys sought federal funds, would cost about $100,000.

Doctors, Druggists Plan Joint Meeting

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
MARIETTA, Ga., Sept. 18.—Doctors and druggists of the seventh district will hold a joint meeting here September 25, with a barbecue and dance at the Marietta Golf Club as added features.

The Cobb County Medical Society and local druggists will be hosts to the two professional bodies. Dr. Muri Hagood, secretary-treasurer of the Seventh District Medical Association, is in charge of the program, and Dr. W. H. Perkins, assisted by a committee of three druggists and three doctors, is general chairman of arrangements.

President-elect Dr. Allen Bunce, Atlanta, of the Georgia Medical Association, will be the principal speaker at the afternoon session, most of which will be devoted to presentation of scientific papers.

Savannah Seeks To Train Airmen

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP) Details of a lease arrangement by which part of the Savannah, (Ga.) municipal airport would be converted into an army training base were discussed with War Department officials today by attorneys representing the city and county.

They were Attorney S. M. Grayson and County Attorney John J. Bouhan declined to make public their findings at the department except to say they were "making progress." He said the lease would involve 150 acres of the airport for a development of the eventual personnel of which would reach about 3,500.

He said the public roads

Sheep Ordered For Farmers Of Coosa Valley

225 Ewes To Be Used in Production of Spring Lambs.

ROME, Ga., Sept. 18.—A shipment of 225 Montana crossbred yearling ewes—best type for use in spring lamb production in this part of the country—is due to arrive this week for distribution to farmers in the Coosa Valley area, according to George W. Gibson, special county agent in livestock work.

The sheep will be unloaded at Cartersville and placed on the farm of Leon Lewis to await distribution. Lewis plans to purchase about 75 of the animals to add to his own flock of about 100 ewes.

Out of the 225 in the carload, however, about 50 have not been placed, and any northwest Georgia farmer wishing to start a flock or increase his existing flock has been urged to notify his county agent or contact Gibson.

Purchase and distribution of the sheep is being sponsored by the Coosa Valley Livestock Producers' Association and the State Extension Service to encourage more livestock raising in this section. The sheep will be sold at cost, and most of the buyers plan to follow the spring lamb production program which is proving highly profitable in the Clarksville, Tenn., area.

Theater Guild To Give Show On October 8-9

Season's Initial Offering Will Be 'The Late Christopher Bean.'

The Atlanta Theater Guild will open its fourth consecutive season with the production of "The Late Christopher Bean," October 8 and 9, under direction of Maureen Beall, President Frank L. Belyeu announced yesterday.

Dr. Belyeu said under the new Guild policy only royalty plays which have been successful on Broadway will be presented here this season. This will enlarge the number and scope of the good plays the Guild will be permitted to present. "The Trial of Mary Dugan" will be the second big offering of the season.

Under Dr. Belyeu's direction, the Guild is also instituting a policy of open houses each month for members and invited guests. At these monthly open house programs someone will speak on the theater, or one of its allied arts—art, sculpture, literature and music. First in this series will be held at 8:15 o'clock Monday in the Casle playhouse, 87 Fifteenth street. George T. Bush will give a reading of Shakespeare's "Macbeth."

Philander Chase, first Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Ohio, was the founder and first president of Kenyon College.

NAZIS HOLD EX-ATLANTAN—Joseph Francis Gatins III, member of a pioneer Atlanta family, is alive in a German prison camp. Gatins spent the winter of 1938-39 here, returning to France shortly before the outbreak of the war, and served until the surrender with the 59th French Infantry. Efforts to establish his American citizenship and facilitate his release are now under way. This picture of Gatins and his mother was taken during their last visit to Atlanta. (Story on Page 1.)

NEW MARRIAGE RECORD.
MOULTRIE, Ga., Sept. 18.—Ten marriage licenses, establishing what courthouse officials say is an all-time record for one day, were issued by the ordinary's office here Saturday. Justice of the Peace Claude McLendon married four couples in less than an hour. He said the nuptials were read "as fast as the marriage license could be filled out."

Man Charged With Perjury Just After Trial

Plaintiff Denies Having Relatives in United States.

Two minutes after a jury brought in a verdict for the defendant in a $15,000 damage suit in Fulton superior court yesterday, the plaintiff, W. S. Mooney, was arrested and charged with perjury.

The dramatic scene in the corridors of the courthouse was witnessed by members of the jury which found in favor of the Georgia Power Company in Mooney's suit to collect damages for personal injuries he alleged he sustained in 1939 when a street car door was closed on him by a motorman.

Mooney swore he had no relatives in the United States but in the trial of his case the power company presented Eugene Mooney, who swore he was W. S. Mooney's son; Thomas J. Mooney, who testified the plaintiff was his uncle, and Will Mooney, who identified Mooney as his brother.

Mooney denied ever having seen any of them before. The witnesses, all from Alabama, testified his real name is Charles P. Mooney and that he was postmaster of Murray Cross, Ala., from 1899 to 1902.

They said also he had served a federal penitentiary sentence for counterfeiting and identified prison pictures as being those of their relative. Mooney still denied any relationship with the Alabamians. He said his only relative was a brother in Germany.

He made the statement when County Policeman Hugh L. Perryman took him in custody and placed him in Fulton tower. Bond was set at $1,000.

Fingerprint records made at the tower are now being checked with the federal prints on record in Washington of the man who served the sentence for counterfeiting.

A. Guy Smith and J. C. Bowden were attorneys for Mooney, and William Schroeder represented the power company. The perjury case against Mooney was worked up by James C. Fickling, of the power company, and Charles F. Holmans, former FBI agent, who is special agent for the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives.

Massachusetts, Arizona Increase in Population

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(P) Massachusetts' population gained 1.5 per cent to 4,312,332, and Arizona's increased 14.3 per cent to 497,789 from 1930 to 1940.

The census bureau said today preliminary figures for Massachusetts showed that eight of its 14 counties and 50 of its 78 urban communities of 10,000 or more population increased during the decade.

In Arizona, nine of the 14 counties and both of its 10,000-or-more cities had increases.

Funny, Melodic And Dramatic Films Offered

Full Bill of New Pictures Opens for First Time in Month.

By LEE ROGERS, Motion Picture Editor.

A full bill of motion pictures opens today and tomorrow in Atlanta for the first time in four weeks and the offering appears dramatic, riotous and melodic. Most significant, an entertainment suspense carefully covering a story of international political complications, is "Foreign Correspondent," opening tomorrow at Loew's. However, the Fox, in "They Drive by Night," has the film which has caused more comment among those who have seen it than any movie of recent months. The dialog makes it. Judy Canova is the "Scatterbrain" at the Rialto tomorrow. "Dance Girl Dance" offers new melodies and two good looking girls—Maureen O'Hara and Lucile Ball—at the Paramount, while another human story of "Dr. Christian" opens today at the Capitol. "Federal Bullets," with Milburn Stone, is playing at the Atlanta.

Loew's
"Foreign Correspondent" is the story of a police reporter who suddenly finds his best covers Europe, his assignment to write a factual story about what foreign diplomats are doing to avert or promote war. Alfred Hitchcock directed the film which opens today at Loew's Grand.

Joel McCrea is the news reporter turned "Foreign Correspondent." Herbert Marshall is the leader of a world peace movement, but only to front his activities as the head of a spy ring seeking to learn secret defense plans of the Allies before Germany declares war; Laraine Day is Marshall's unsuspecting daughter; Robert Benchley as the veteran foreign correspondent of 25 years' service; George Sanders as the English reporter trying to trap the spy gang leader.

The story is based on international situations of the past two years, is filled with disaster, near-disaster, suspense and intrigue.

Fox
George Raft, Humphrey Bogart, Ann Sheridan, Ida Lupino and Gale Page top the cast of the surprise picture, "They Drive by Night," a snappy dialog and action picture concerned with the life of truck drivers. It plays the Fox, beginning tomorrow. The Warner Brothers' publicity department informs that the "cracks" which pass back and forth between the wayside inn waitress, Miss Sheridan, and Raft, operator and driver of a small truck line, tops the patter between Cagney, Sheridan and O'Brien in "Torrid Zone," one of the hot films of the past summer. Raft and Bogart are brothers. They operate a truck on a shoe-string. Things go along well until Ida Lupino, wife of a well-to-do truck line operator, falls in love with Raft and complicates things. It's rough and tumble action, but the dialog gives it a lift, the press agents say.

Paramount

"Dance Girl Dance" is the story of two ambitious chorus girls who have their eye on a handsome young millionaire playboy—but for different reasons.

Maureen O'Hara is in love with him; Lucile Ball wants him for his money and to show Maureen she can get any man she wants. Louis Hayward is the man. Songs and dances abound in the film and advance reports say "Dance Girl Dance" is above the average run of entertainment.

The new March of Time, "Our Foreign War Fronts," is also on the program.

Rialto
When a hillbilly girl with no beauty gets a letter meant for her beautiful sister and heads for the city to become a glamor girl in a movie, comedy begins—especially when that hillbilly glamorous one is Judy Canova.

"Scatterbrain" is the name of the film, the Rialto is playing it and Republic made it. In fact, Republic thought it was so good they are making another film starring Judy. "Scatterbrain" was her first adventure in the movies, though she has long been a success on the radio and on the stage. Judy, at so many years ago, adopted Unadilla, Ga., as her home. The little town didn't like it at first, but soon awoke to find her advertising was helping, not hurting, the town, and she fast became the town's favorite citizen. In fact, when she made a personal appearance in Atlanta

Defense Plants' Division Asked By Governors

Resolution Urges Decentralization of Factories for Safety.

(Story on Page 1.)

The complete text of a resolution of the Southern Governors' Conference, seeking to avoid repetition of industrial concentration of the type which resulted from the War Between the States, was sent yesterday to President Roosevelt and defense officials upon the return of Governor Rivers, chairman, and Walter R. McDonald, executive secretary, from the conference's three-day session off Mobile.

The text follows:

The Southern Governors' Conference acknowledges and unanimously commends the fine appreciation President Roosevelt has repeatedly expressed of the necessity of locating a substantial portion of war industries plants in secure and defensible areas of the nation. His understanding of the merits of decentralization and the utilization of the facilities of all areas of the nation for the long-range development and permanent prosperity of all parts of the country are characteristic of his great vision. Heartened by this attitude of the President, this conference many months ago constituted a special Southwide Regional Defense Commission to work with the National Defense Council to furnish authentic information helpful in making such locations. Our commission was specifically instructed that it was our position that locations should be made strictly on the basis of the best interest of the national defense, without regard to political subdivisions or community pressure. Our committee has been working strictly along this purely patriotic approach.

The National Defense Council has evidenced its approval of our action and shown its desire to co-operate with us in such a patriotic approach by appointing Honorable Frank Bane to act as liaison representative between our and other state commissions and the Defense Council.

However, despite the public position of the President and the apparent action of the Defense Council to co-operate with us, this conference has the distinct feeling based on a careful study of the able study of the operation of the national defense program up to date that under the slogan of "great speed" the long-range benefit to the whole nation for both present and past emergency benefit to the whole nation for both present and past emergency benefits are being pushed into the background with the result that the expressed wishes of the President and the program of the National Defense Council of secure and defensible locations over the entire nation are being hindered and impeded.

We further feel that, under this slogan of "great speed," which we fully recognize as essential to the immediate armament program, we and other areas of this nation are being deprived of certain developments necessary for the future well being of our nation, and still further concentrations of industry being accentuated to the future detriment of our nation as a whole, and to certain areas in particular.

Be it therefore resolved: That our Southern Governors' Conference deplors this trend in the expansion of our industries, particularly as it applies to new plants and new developments, and a proper appreciation of the advisability of decentralization of a long-range future program.

And further, that we formally call to the attention of the President and the National Defense Council the feeling of this conference on this vital subject as a matter of information and reaffirm our position and desire to co-operate in this crucial undertaking strictly on a basis of national needs and the general benefit for the future.

British Bomb Invasion Bases, Sink Destroyer

Hitler Dared To Attempt Invasion as Channel Storm Subsides.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(UP)—One of the biggest fleets of British bombers ever hurried into action has delivered a "terrific onslaught" against Adolf Hitler's "invasion spearhead" along the channel coast, the air ministry said tonight as a howling storm over the channel subsided.

The return of "invasion weather" was accompanied by an open challenge to Adolf Hitler from the commander-in-chief of Britain's home defense force to send his hordes against Britain and have them "thrown back into the sea."

Destroyer Sunk.
The air ministry said that massed British bombers in night assaults had "relentlessly" blasted at Nazi ship concentrations and warships—supposedly sinking a destroyer—along the German-held channel coast.

While the RAF was showering bombs on this "potential invasion spearhead" from Denmark to the Bay of Biscay, a communique said, other bombers flew north-eastward into Germany "to pound the right wing of the enemy's line at Hamburg."

Further heavy destruction was said to have been done to strategic German railroad yards, junctions and supply depots "which already have taken so much punishment."

Lashing gales, which were reported to have scattered Hitler's "invasion fleet," gave way today to brilliant sunshine and moderate seas.

As the "invasion weather" improved, however, information reached London that Hitler has started to return to Norwegian shipowners hundreds of small ships which had been requisitioned for the launching of a large-scale invasion.

Cherbourg, France's big Atlantic port, was bombed and two large ships smashed and blown up, the air ministry said.

Russians' Faces Red, Run to 'Foe' for Safety

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(UP)—The heads of the Soviet trade delegation now here, Paul Filin and Nicolai Feonoff, recently were caught in central London during an air raid and hurried from their automobile into the nearest doorway.

After a few minutes they discovered they were in the Polish embassy and left quickly, recalling that Poland officially is at war with Russia.

City Detective Joe B. White, a pistol expert and pistol instructor at police headquarters, is back from Camp Perry, Ohio, with awards to show his accomplishment at the training school.

White won the submachinegun sharpshooter, pistol sharpshooter, and pistol marksman awards, the first two of which are top honors. He also brought home a diploma from the United States Army Training School.

Returning after the 10-day course, Detective White shyly admitted that his score on the submachinegun was 270 out of a possible 300 and that when time was called he still retained three cartridges in his gun.

At Camp Perry, White said he found his most fun in the "Hogan alley" test, in which a line of houses on the alley were selected and the soldiers required to walk through them shooting at every target which "jumped up." If the boys lost any time firing away at these targets, he explained, it was

U. S. May Build New Bases in Weeks--Palmer

Advantages and Significance of Leases Outlined by Expert.

By COL. FREDERICK PALMER.

For North American Newspaper Alliance.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—

Now that we have the leases of the British bases, how much of a task will it be and how long will it take to make them ready for any immediate emergency, and then how long before we have more adequate permanent installations? Those who are impatient with the progress of our preparedness program probably will answer "years" when the statement is made that it is a matter of weeks, if need be in the first instance, and months in the second instance.

Long ago our army and navy staffs made studies in prevision for prompt action in the event of war should our southern neighbors desire us to establish common defensive bases on their soil.

Now we have more bases to prepare before war than we had dreamed of. The more the deal for the British bases is studied the more its advantages and significance are realized. But its advantages to Britain are also very great. In addition to the implications of allying us with her in the war, we are strengthening the defenses of her possessions.

Studies in our Army and Navy War Colleges will be revolutionized by starting from a new set of premises. Tactics and strategy will be quite changed for our naval maneuvers in the Atlantic.

Ports Will Be Open.

Many enormously valuable ports which would be closed to our naval ships in war will be open to them. And we may thank British seamen for having an eye to a good harbor in the days when war was all but endemic on the Spanish Main.

All the bases have good harbors. To meet an emergency the navy has practically only to steam in with its capital as well as minor ships. Submarines will have a nest from which to strike at enemy ships, and seaplanes will have smooth, enclosed waters.

Most of the harbors favor mine laying. It is the business of the army to lay mines, but removing them will be the business of the enemy who has to bring his mine sweepers past our ships and planes across the Atlantic. Quick action for the navy would be a matter of days, for ships, and hours for the planes, on the Atlantic side.

Planes require radios and meteorological stations, but these ought not to take long to install, and the principal bases already have them. Landplanes require a level field. Nowhere will mountains of rock have to be blasted to make one. Landplanes, particularly bombers, with their heavy loads, must have hard runways—5,000 feet long and 350 feet wide for the bombers and 3,000 and 250 for the fighters.

Material Plentiful.

Where the tropical rainy season, for example, makes the ground too soft, concrete or some hard product of mineral oils must be laid for runways. But this material we have in plenty. It would not take long to lay the runways; nor to install repair shops and 100 per cent octane gasoline for planes which deteriorates in tanks exposed to hot sun; nor anti-aircraft guns if we have them available.

In warm southern climes it is not necessary to build steam-heated barracks for the ground force, which numbers eight to ten for each pilot. Underground hangars are a refinement not of immediate importance.

Our navy and army board of inspection made its first visit of inspection to Bermuda because it is the great base for us in the deal in protecting our own Atlantic coast—the one island outpost, 780 to 1,000 miles out between Halifax and Puerto Rico. Bermuda has a great landlocked sound, its narrow entrance having been blasted for ships of deep draught. It already has a drydock and a well-equipped naval station.

Halifax is well defended by coastal batteries. Proper defenses should assure that any gentleman, with von in front of his name, who tries to repeat the General Wolfe triumph up the St. Lawrence, will meet disaster.

Puerto Rico, which we are heavily fortifying and manning, should remain our great Caribbean base under our own flag. We have bases in all the rim of islands commanding all the passages around the Caribbean from Florida to Guiana, with the exception of Martinique, which General Charles de Gaulle might lease to us if Chancellor Hitler claimed it.

From Trinidad and the Barbados it is 1,300 miles across the Caribbean to the Panama Canal. Installations that presently will be adequate can be made in less than a year and the amount of further protection in ships and planes is subject to speed and quantity of production.

Mayor Starts Three Projects Before His Exit

Completion of Museum, Street Work, Park Expansion Planned.

Mayor Hartsfield this weekend will launch a campaign to complete three projects before he surrenders the executive chair January 6 to his successor, Roy Lee-Craw.

He will concentrate on completing a museum of trophies and historical documents of the War Between the States at the cyclorama painting of the Battle of Atlanta; widening and repaving of Memorial drive from Whitehall street to Capitol avenue, and acquisition of additional acreage for Mozley park, in the fourth ward.

Hartsfield left by plane yesterday afternoon to attend the United States Conference of Mayors in New York and while there will visit the Bannerman arsenal in New York to ascertain whether there is anything in stock which will add to the collection already begun at the cyclorama. The arsenal is one of the best known in America and carries a line of old war relics.

A later trip is planned to Washington to attempt to obtain copies of important orders and documents affecting the razing of Atlanta.

City council will be asked at its October 7 meeting to provide at least $1,600 as the initial cost of providing for the Memorial drive project from Whitehall street to Formwalt street. The road will be widened about 18 feet to provide a 40-foot thoroughfare, and estimates for the remaining distance are now being prepared.

H. B. Andrews, representing the city in negotiations for the expansion of Mozley park, has been requested to push his investigations to early completion.

"I am interested intensely in getting these three major projects under way if not completed before I leave the office," Hartsfield said. "Memorial drive is an important thoroughfare, but the bottleneck reduces the efficiency of the artery materially. When it is eliminated, traffic will flow more freely and more rapidly."

"My interest in the historical museum at the Cyclorama is well known. I believe we will have done a real constructive service if we can complete it within the next three months."

"We promised the people of the fourth ward we would help them in their desire to obtain additional land for the expansion of Mozley park. If we are ever to do that we should begin now. I think in all fairness, we should pursue our commitment in that respect."

U. S. Destroyer Deal Topic at Axis Parley

Von Ribbentrop, Mussolini To Discuss Action at Meeting Today.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(P)—Germany sent Joachim von Ribbentrop to Italy today for the formulation of new Axis "action—not words," in the midst of the Battle of Britain, and some inspired commentators indicated that the British-American trade of defense bases for destroyers will be weighed.

This subject has been treated with reserve in Germany and the German press, obviously at a hint from above, has consistently minimized its significance. Even today, authorization would not go beyond the statement that it was on the Rome "agenda," but their manner indicated the transaction is causing the Axis powers concern.

Gibraltar Attack Seen.

Aside from this, Egypt and Spain were expected to be the primary subjects for discussion among Ribbentrop, Benito Mussolini and Count Ciano, his son-in-law and foreign minister.

(Plans by the Rome-Berlin Axis to storm Gibraltar, Britain's imperial bastion of the western Mediterranean, may be laid at the Rome conference, Italian quarters believe.)

Egypt now has been invaded by Italian armies in what the German press has been calling a battle for the liberation of the Egyptians from the British. It seems logical that German troops might be used to help Italy in this push.

Madagascar to Be Prize.

Spain this week sent Ramon Serrano Suner, key minister and brother-in-law of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, to Berlin, and now, informed source say, the problem is where to fit Spain into the Axis scheme of things. That Spain will want something in return for her co-operation is accepted, and most frequently mentioned is the great French island colony of Madagascar, in the Indian ocean.

One usually reliable source indicated the Rome conference might develop a secret treaty or even a public pronouncement of Spanish adherence to the Axis, although Spain is unable to do very much in a military or economic manner.

Edenfield Is Candidate For President Pro Tem

Homers Edenfield, of Camden county, senator-designate for the fourth district, yesterday announced his candidacy for president pro tem of the state senate. Edenfield previously has represented the fourth district, composed of Camden, Charlton and Glynn counties, in the senate.

POWERFUL PUNCH—Miss Polly Wright, 26, routed two robbers yesterday from the home of her socially prominent employer with a right hook which she said was taught her by Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion. The intruders escaped while she was phoning police.

Emory Awards Woman Routs 81 Degrees, 29 Intruders With To Atlantans A 'Right Hook'

Summer Enrollment Rises; 32 Become Bachelors of Divinity.

Twenty-nine Atlantans were among 81 Emory University students who have been awarded degrees at the close of the 1940 summer session, Dean J. Gordon Stipe said yesterday.

Average enrollment for the two summer sessions was 590 students, representing an increase of more than 80 over the 1939 figure. Bachelor of divinity degrees have been awarded 32 students, 20 received bachelor of arts degrees, and 18 were given master of arts degrees.

Welfare Employees Get Pay Increase

A two per cent salary increase to 38 white and Negro case workers of the Fulton Public Welfare Department has been authorized by the county board of Public Welfare, Henry B. Mays Jr., director, said yesterday. The increase will bring salaries of white case workers to $90 a month and the pay of Negro case workers to $80 monthly, Mays said.

The board also voted to discontinue operation of the relief shelter for Negro men on Auburn avenue. The shelter was condemned as a fire trap and the 110 aged Negro occupants are to be moved to other quarters. Mays said some of them will receive old age assistance, others will be put on direct relief and the remainder will be sent to the county almshouse.

The board's actions were taken at a luncheon meeting for Ivan Allen Sr., new member of the board, which was given by Dean Paden.

Shell Digs Into Lawn Of Westminster Abby

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(P)—An anti-aircraft shell, the second within a week, fell today near Westminster Abbey. It landed on the lawn but did not explode. The first exploded near the west door of St. Margaret's church and slightly damaged the west window.

Today's shell will be left buried in the lawn, like a similar one which dug into the turf during the last war.

Russell Opens Hearings on Pay-Hour Case

Grocery Firm's Decision To Have National Significance.

United States District Judge Robert L. Russell yesterday began hearings on a wage-hour case expected to have nationwide significance.

The case, a government allegation that Alterman Brothers, Atlanta wholesale grocery company, has violated provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, is the first such case to be contested by a wholesale grocer in the United States, and the first civil case involving the wage-hour statute to be fought in region seven, comprising Georgia and Florida, since the law went into effect in October, 1938.

The government charges that the wholesalers failed to pay some of their employees the minimum wage established by law; failed to pay overtime as required by law; kept improper records and made false entries in their books to conceal the alleged violations.

Its alleged actions gave the company an unfair competitive advantage over wholesale grocers who comply with the law, the government charged. An injunction seeking to restrain them from further alleged violations of the act is being sought.

In a blanket denial of charges company's attorneys have replied that the grocery concern is not engaged in interstate commerce, and therefore does not fall under jurisdiction of the act.

Yesterday's witnesses were mainly employees and former employees of the concern, who said they signed false statements as to the number of hours worked in order to save their jobs.

500 Steel Cars Bought by L&N From Pullman

$1,162,500 Order To Be Paid for by September, 1950.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad has purchased $1,162,500 worth of new freight cars from the Pullman-Standard Car Company of Butler, Penn., contracts filed in Fulton superior court for record revealed yesterday.

The railroad will get 500 new all-steel hopper cars and will pay for them over a period of 119 months ending September 20, 1950. Installments will be $11,254 each month.

The agreement between the two companies was reached September 4, the contract stated. Officials of the L. and N. here said they could make no statement about the purchase.

Battles Inside Party Ended, Arnall Says

Loyal Democrats Rally to Roosevelt-Wallace Ticket, He Asserts.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall, director of organization work for Roosevelt-Wallace clubs in Georgia, yesterday predicted a "tremendous Democratic victory in November" in a statement which said that Georgia will always be the citadel of Democratic strength.

His statement follows: "Good Democrats have always confined their rights to disagreements and battles within the party. Loyal Democrats always cheerfully abide the final action of their party."

As an example, some leading Georgia Democrats conscientiously were opposed to a third term and prior to the convention waged an active campaign within the party to prevent it. But the national Democratic convention having seen fit to draft President Roosevelt as the standard bearer of our great party, these good Democrats have loyally rallied to the party's nominee and are now splendidly lending their valuable support to the Roosevelt-Wallace Democratic ticket.

The attitude of Judge Lucien P. Goodrich, of Griffin, an outstanding Democrat, is illustrative. Judge Goodrich has this to say: "Last spring I made a talk over WSB in favor of a presidential primary and in opposition to a third term for Mr. Roosevelt or any other President. But in that talk I expressly said that if Mr. Roosevelt is nominated by the Democratic party, I will take off my coat and work for his election just as I did in 1932 and 1936. I wish to assure you of my readiness and willingness to fulfill that promise."

Woman Acquitted On Theft Charges

Grace Chastain, white, charged with stealing a purse from an Atlanta department store and then attempting to get a refund on its return, was acquitted yesterday by a jury in Judge John S. McClelland's division of Fulton criminal court.

She was accused by representatives of the Stores' Mutual Protective Association of taking the $5 bag, but she denied it. Miss Pearl Marchman, manager of the purse department, testified the purse was missing but could not testify from her own knowledge that the bag was not sold.

Miss Marchman identified the defendant as the woman who attempted to obtain the refund, but said she had never seen the defendant before the purse was returned to the store.

Fingerprint records showed the defendant had been arrested on simple larceny charges and charges of violating the uniform narcotic act.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPTEMBER 19, 1940.

Godspeed Our Boys

More than 3,000 young Georgians, formerly of the National Guard, are now members of the regular army of the United States. They are regulars for a year of intensive training and, this week and next, will be arriving at Camp Jackson, S. C.

All Georgia sends a word of good cheer and of Godspeed to these young men, going, as the first contingent of this state's human contribution to the defense of our nation. The state is proud of them and knows that, whatever comes, it will always have good reason for such pride.

Upon the shoulders of these young men, and of tens of thousands like them from all the states, rests the first responsibility for the creation of an armed force which shall be so strong, so well equipped and well trained that no enemy will ever dare lay foot upon the soil of this continent.

Soon the registration of men between 21 and 35 for compulsory military service will be taking place and, quickly thereafter, the first contingent of these peacetime draftees will be joining their brothers of the erstwhile National Guard in camp and cantonment.

There is no need for any man to regret that he is one of those selected for this service to his nation. There will be no injustice in the selection. It should be regarded as a privilege to be deemed fit and worthy for training as a chosen defender of America and of all this nation holds dear.

And, in a very real sense, there will be few, if any, of the men called, through one channel or the other, for a year's military training who will not benefit thereby. Any who do not can have only themselves to blame. For military training, to the youth who approaches it in the right spirit and right attitude, can be of immense value to the individual, physically and in developing and strengthening good character.

Georgia wishes her sons Godspeed and, in many Georgia hearts, there is a tinge of envy for the opportunity that awaits them.

The Brothers Grimm—good story-tellers in their time—never thought of "oil and gas tanks in the neighborhood of Buckingham Palace."

"The Master Race!"

Berlin householders this week received leaflets, official Nazi leaflets, instructing Germans what attitude to adopt in any contact they may have with Poles. Those instructions are so illuminative as to the warped mentality of Nazidom itself that they are worthy of preserving and emphasizing.

"Fellow German!" the leaflets read, "The Pole is never your comrade! He stands beneath every German. . . . Be just, but never forget that you belong to the master race. . . . And so on, and so on, ad nauseam.

Germans are told that Poles are unfit for intermarriage or even casual comradeship with Germans.

The master race!

Certainly, in some respects, the Germans have proven themselves the master race. Masters of cruelty, masters of intolerance, masters of viciousness. Masters of lies, masters of perfidy, masters of treachery. Masters of barbarity, masters of savagery. And masters of stupidity.

The very fact that the Germans thus proclaim themselves as a superior race to all others, that Poles and other foreigners are "second-rate humans," is sufficient assurance that the edifice of German conquest is founded on a false base and must, sooner or later, fall into fearful ruin.

It is still true that all decent men scorn the Levite who thanked God he was not so other men. The spirit of mankind still believes in the universal brotherhood of mankind and knows that, before God, all men are equal.

There are many recorded things which reveal the Nazi mind as something shockingly indecent. But, in final analysis, there is nothing so indecent in all their ideology as this evil assumption of the inferiority of all other races to their own.

There is something unspeakably filthy about a nation which will officially brand the people of another country as "second-rate humans." Such minds are doomed, regardless of armies and planes and atrocities, to extinction. For there is no place for them in a world created by Divine Power as the home of men adjured by Christ to love one another.

In the field of politics and war, a Republican high tide is reported in Maine, and it is not believed Democrats will attempt an invasion at that point.

Strange Support

The publicity department of the Willkie-for-President organization last week sent out a story which emphasized that 65 per cent of the foreign language newspapers in the United States were supporting the Republican nominee.

Now there are, undoubtedly, a number of excellent newspapers published in foreign languages, in this country. It is undeniably true, however, that these papers as a group have for long been under suspicion by federal authorities charged with the duty of suppressing "Fifth Column" activities in this country.

There is, as a matter of fact, a bill before congress to require all such publications to publish any funds they receive from foreign countries, with the purpose of uncovering those which are financially supported by governments which seek to undermine the American system.

It is, therefore, passing strange to find the organization of a candidate for the presidency of the United States, in such critical times as these, trying to make capital out of the fact that two-thirds of the foreign language press supports their man.

That very fact should, actually, be cause for long and careful thought by any voter who has contemplated casting his ballot for Wendell Willkie.

This does not mean any aspersion upon Mr. Willkie, personally.

But, when 65 per cent of the foreign language press supports a given candidate—there must be a reason.

It is still a land of opportunity if the fellow who foots the class in the civil service exam for dog catcher can take out papers for congress.

The Southern Forests

Few people today who don't know that the forests of the south are one of the greatest items of natural wealth for this section of the country.

However, for those who would gain a better understanding of the exact place of forests and forest products in southern economy, a recent booklet will be a godsend. It is titled "The Southern Forests" and is published by the Atlanta field office of the National Resources Planning Board, of which Henry T. McIntosh is regional chairman.

The book gives detailed information of southern forests from every viewpoint. It details area, ownership and values of the forests, with a description and analysis of the various forest products, under the three principal classifications of lumber, naval stores and wood pulp.

The problems of forest management, of fire loss, of marketing and of taxation are intelligently reviewed and the specific conditions applying to the older lumber mill towns, and the comparatively new pulp mill towns, come in for considerable attention.

The need for a program of co-ordinated action, in which the general public, private forest owners, industry, agriculture and officialdom shall co-operate to conserve our forests for the future, while making them as prolific a source of wealth as possible for the present, is emphasized.

The book contains, in addition to its written text, numerous tables and charts which vividly portray the statistical factors in forest growth, ownership, development, etc.

"The Southern Forests" will be an invaluable handbook to all whose interests, directly or indirectly, are involved in our forest wealth. Which means, literally, everyone.

FIFTY DESTROYERS

"The more we think of it, the better we like it," says the NEW YORK DAILY NEWS of the 50-destroyer deal with Great Britain, and adds the thought that "It may have been downright illegal for F. D. Roosevelt to consummate this trade . . . for leases of British bases without a treaty duly debated and ratified by the senate."

Although admitting the "swap" helps the United States, the MINNEAPOLIS STAR-JOURNAL declares, "The opposition . . . arises almost entirely from apprehension that it has been handled in a way that tends to commit and involve us rather than to protect us." In stronger words, the CHICAGO TRIBUNE says: "Although we do not see how the transfer of the destroyers could be regarded as anything but a belligerent act, it is probably true that we have done so much already that is belligerent that very little difference is made by this additional breach of neutrality."

THE DETROIT FREE PRESS observes that there is no way of determining when any action by the United States government is "short of war" or war itself. The only one who could determine when that imaginary line is crossed is the German government. . . . For Hitler to say that this government had committed an act of war would leave him no alternative than to declare war. If he did this, then the United States would be bound to act on the ground that, by his declaration, a state of war is in existence.

"But Hitler will not declare war," says the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS. "He is too busy with Britain . . . Meanwhile, we shall have the new bases. When they are completed, they will give us a beginning in the Atlantic, of what we already enjoy in the Pacific, namely, a far-flung outer line of defense."

THE CAPITAL PARADE FAIR ENOUGH

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NO WHITE FEATHERS WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Now that the President has signed the draft bill, it is reassuring to report that the War Department has no plans for a great bally-hoo campaign in behalf of conscription. Naturally, every effort will be made to disseminate to the public the details of the law, and particularly what the army calls the "here, when and who" of registration. To accomplish this, an officer has been assigned the job of public relations and several civilian aides have been hired.

But if the War Department has its way, the many self-appointed patriots who have been hurrying to Washington with grandiose plans to arouse the country will be disappointed. Officers, who for almost 20 years have been preparing a selective service program, want no part of the all-too-familiar and objectionable ideas for employing "white feather" and "slacker" techniques. The army, it was said, is as eager as anyone that the conscription law be carried out without arousing the bitter feelings of the last war.

"We shall do nothing more than give information, and we shall encourage our state organizations and local boards to stick to the same limits," a spokesman said. "The 16,500,000 men who must register have individual rights. A great many of them have a proper claim for deferment. Many we do not even want. Those who seek deferment, as far as we are concerned, will have no finger pointed at them. It is most important not to upset the social, industrial and agricultural life of the country."

CHANGED TIMES There have been many rumors that the army had plans for a great publicity campaign, in which high-pressure methods would be used to encourage acceptance of conscription. Some substance was given the reports by the fact that, some years ago, the War Department's selective service division created a special committee of 20 reserve officers, all of whom are experts in publicity, advertising and propaganda. The committee still exists, but apparently its members have not been called for consultation. The War Department had been preparing for a wartime, rather than a peacetime, draft, and a great many old ideas have been rejected because of changed circumstances.

One of the most active opponents of using the "slacker" technique is Lowell Mellett, one of the President's leading advisers on publicity. Some time ago, high army officials conferred with Mellett and assured him that the many rumors concerning the department's publicity program were untrue. The army, it was said, had no disposition toward any plan except one of information.

As a matter of fact, the conscription forms have been purposely so written as to make clear the rights of the individual draftee. While the fact was not well publicized, a great many army experts were eager to restrict registration to those between the ages of 21 and 31. And the army's original preparations were for a draft within those limits. As a result of the age increase, the national plan had to be revised completely. Then, too, most of the army experts are opposed to drafting any married men at this time. Here again congress wrote a definition of "dependent" which limits the discretion of the department and the local boards. So that no assurances can be given that some married men will not be called.

AN OLD IDEA The new law is described as the first peacetime conscription in the country's history. As we envision a military draft, this is, of course, correct. But army officers point out that from 1792 until the Civil War there was a federal law compelling military training.

On May 8, 1792, congress passed a law requiring compulsory training for all "free, white citizens" between the ages of 18 and 45 years. They were required to report to the nearest military officer of their districts each year for specified instructions. They had to provide their own clothing, musket and ammunition, and, if they wished service in the dragoons, a horse of suitable size, a saddle and other equipment. They also had to provide their own transportation to assembly points.

Training was conducted under regulations devised by George Washington. However, the states had control over the militia, and they plan to do so, because on frequent occasions the states would refuse to furnish men to the federal government. Finally, at the time of the Civil War, there was a wholesale refusal of troops, which culminated in the enactment of the first genuine draft law.

Loewinsohn To the Rescue.

It is almost uncanny how, some ways when one is seriously stuck for an idea, some friend or acquaintance comes tripping in to the last-minute rescue, just like the Marines. Sometimes the idea needed is caught out of the air by web of their conversation, or chattered down to the rescuer by visitors. Occasionally it is brought in ready prepared by some chap thoughtful for the problems of a daily columnist.

Now, consider Joe Loewinsohn. This column was in fair way of remaining blank space for today, until he came cheerfully in with a mss. he seemed to think was fully intriguing and magically important.

It seems that Joe has been delving into the musty records of the Most Sacred Tibetan monastery. Where the high lamas congregate and, occasionally, the Living Buddha, who is supposed to be a reincarnation of the Buddha, appears before them. (How Joe got so intimate with lamas and Living Buddhas and Tibet he did not explain.)

Anyway, on a certain auspicious date in 1890—fifty years ago, please note—the Living Buddha appeared before the high lamas and made a prophecy about what was going to happen in the world 50 years later on, in 1940, to be precise. It's uncanny.

Here's the Prophecy.

Said the Living Buddha in 1890—according to Joe: "More and more will people forget about their souls and religion. They will pay attention to things of material values. Corruption and sin will reign on earth. People, like wild beasts, will thirst for the blood and death of their brothers."

"Fifty years hence there will ensue a spiritual darkness and the world will be plunged into a series of bloody wars. The conquerors will be stricken by a mysterious disease before fully enjoying the fruits of their conquests. Twice they will suffer reverses and they will be degraded before the other peoples."

"The crowns of great and lesser kings will fall. . . . One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight crowns shall fall. . . . A terrible war will rage among many nations. The seas will run red with human blood. The earth and the bottom of the ocean will be covered with human bones."

"Empires and kingdoms will have been destroyed 50 years hence. Entire races will perish and disappear. Famine and crime, unparalleled in the long history of mankind, will reign supreme. The enemies of God and the divine human spirit will stalk the world."

"The downtrodden and persecuted will rise. . . . There will be blinding storms and fogs. Earthquakes will occur frequently. Millions of people will exchange their chains of slavery and humiliation for hunger, disease and death. The highways will be covered by hordes of people wearily wandering from place to place."

ONE WORD MORE

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Test For Sincerity

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—I will tell you a sure way to decide whether Dan Tobin, the president of the Teamsters' Union, is honest in his exhortation to union labor to kick out the racketeers.

Wait and see whether Mr. Tobin gets up before the national convention of the American Federation of Labor in October to demand the expulsion of George Browne, who has been sitting with Mr. Tobin, William Green and the rest of them in the executive council of the federation. This is the cabinet and supreme court of the AFL, and Browne holds a seat as representative of the racket known as the Stagehands' Union, which embraces all employees of the theater and movies except the performers and musicians. It is one of the most powerful unions in the United States, and it is dominated by criminals with prison records who never worked at honest employment, all under the authority of a charter issued by the American Federation of Labor.

Browne is a scandalous reproach to the labor movement which Mr. Tobin loves so well, and any cleanup which does not eliminate him will be a fake. The fact that he sits in the council is an indictment of Tobin, Green and the other elder statesmen of the federation who have a solemn duty to protect the rank and file from racketeers and to preserve the good name of the federation. They all know that George Browne is a hoodlums' man, but Green, nevertheless, rose before the convention of Browne's racket in Louisville last June and endorsed his leadership.

It is necessary to recall briefly just here that Browne appointed as his personal representatives, with full powers, two notorious criminals of the Capone mob in Chicago. They are Willie Bioff, an old brother keeper, and Nick Circella, Alias Dean, a stickup man. Browne, of course, was thoroughly aware of their vicious character, having run with them for years.

Nevertheless, in that same Louisville convention he made it plain that to get rid of them labor must also get rid of him.

Browne himself has no criminal record, but his association with gangsters has been established, and any man who knowingly selects criminals to represent an international union of the AFL with total authority to negotiate with employers and inflict arbitrary punishment on balky American citizens, is morally unfit to hold office in the federation or any of its unions. Not all gangsters have been convicted. Al Capone reigned for 10 years before he went to jail.

Duty To Clean Up

It is as much Dan Tobin's duty to clean out the council as it is to purge his own union. And in his speech to the teamsters' convention in Washington, at which President Roosevelt also spoke as a political guest, wherein Mr. Tobin denounced "unprincipled scoundrels" in the labor movement, he put it to himself to demand the expulsion of George Browne.

Am I calling George Browne an unprincipled scoundrel, then? Well, I put it this way:

Bioff, being Browne's chosen agent, clothed with Browne's powers, is equal to Browne. Bioff is an unprincipled scoundrel. Things equal to each other are equal to the same thing.

The same axiom covers the relationship between Browne and Circella. Browne is, in fact, equal to two unprincipled scoundrels.

When the AFL holds its convention the courage and honesty of those who profess to be high-minded leaders of labor may be judged by their utterances and actions regarding Mr. Browne.

Old City Goes Modern

On the 229th anniversary of the founding of Ouro Preto, Brazil, famous for its ancient and picturesque buildings, the city fathers laid the cornerstone of a modern tourist hotel. The imposing edifice will be built by the Brazilian government and the state of Minas Geraes, and enthusiasts declare the old city will soon offer tourists a combination of old churches and modern plumbing.

Sons Emulate Dad

The nine sons of J. Albert Kittel, employed in the Iron Knob, South Australia, iron field, are following closely in his footsteps, it is reported at Sydney. All are working for the Broken Hill Company. Albert senior is a blacksmith, Albert junior is steel shaper, foreman, Max powder monkey, Harry steel shaper, Stanley truck driver, Chris blacksmith, Lester truck driver, Walter apprentice boilermaker, Horace apprentice fitter. The father is 82 and in his spare time breeds peacocks.

Death Ray Debunked

Professor A. M. Low, of London, has debunked the death ray in response to hundreds of letters asking about rays which burst magnetos and bring airplanes crashing to the ground. His reply is that magnetos are not always necessary on planes and that no one has yet found how to direct a ray which carries any power.

The Three Bares

"Ann's been worrying a lot about her ears sticking out."

OUR LADY OF PERPETUAL HELP

Ours is a large city but not large enough to have the roar of a great city. Yet there is roar enough to deafen us to some things. Ours is a beautiful city, yet it does not glitter with minarets or towers of polished steel and glistening stone. Yet, it glitters enough to blind us to some things.

About 40 years ago in New York the daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne came upon an old person, near death from cancer. Call it what you will, God or impulse, something caused that woman, beautiful and cultured, to install herself in two small rooms. In one she placed the person who was near death from cancer. It was a helpless person, penniless, and in a home where no treatment or help could be given. She began to give medicine and alleviate pain.

When the time came for the soul of that person to quit the body and go out on the tide of eternity, there was another woman helping the daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Rose Huber, an art student in New York, read about what the daughter of the great writer had done. Call it what you will, God or impulse, she went to see her because something said in her mind, "I wonder if there is not something in this that I can do."

Yesterday in the quiet office of the hospital in Atlanta called "Our Lady of Perpetual Help," I talked for a brief while with a great woman. Forty years have touched her lightly. There is something in her face which only the faces of those who have wisdom and faith may have.

Today she is Mother Rose, the young art student of 40 years ago, now become head of an order with few peers and no superior in Christian service, "The Servants for the Relief of Incurable Cancer," branch of the Dominican order.

THOSE WHO COME The order is, of course, a Catholic order. They are servants of the dying and not of any sect. To the clean, wholesome beds of the hospital wards come many patients. Most of them are of the Protestant faith. Some few are of the Catholic faith. A few are of no faith at all.

They come to this hospital from shacks in rural slums or isolated farms. There are wards for those of both our races. Most of them come afraid, watching with staring eyes the sisters in the habits of their order. Some, in their ignorance, have heard the words of demagogues and used their ignorance to make a fearful bugaboo of the Catholic faith.

All come to attain a serenity which is touching and astounding. All of them move inexorably toward the last day or night, the last minute of life, with a calm and even cheerful resignation which is an answer to many questions.

There has never been a finer or more noble group of women than these sisters of the Catholic faith who give their lives to the care of the poor and the sick.

And it seemed to me, coming from the quiet serenity of that hospital of perpetual help for the perpetual arrival of the incurable sufferers from cancer, that perhaps these who give their lives to those without hope of life, perhaps will merit better than anyone else that best of epitaphs, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

They care each year for hundreds, taking only the most helpless cases. It seemed to me on leaving them and the great woman who is head of their order and their hospitals, that a great many persons, wanting some worthy charity to assist, might think of this one which has not asked for help and which does not seek it in the market places, believing always God will provide.

THE DREADFUL FLOWER

A doctor once described sarcoma as a beautiful and yet horrible flower, spreading its tendrils throughout the body and then devouring it.

It comes to persons of all degrees of age and position. When it comes to those who live in complete poverty they move inexorably toward the same conclusion as others. But not as comfortably.

The doors of the hospital, "Our Lady of Perpetual Help," are open to those who have an incurable cancer and who are penniless and without help.

This hospital is a sort of bridge. It takes a person who is to die. It puts that person in a clean bed, it gives treatment, it alleviates that person's pain, it cheers him while alive, it cleanses the horror of his reeking sores, it sends him to Death's door and into the door.

Since the time Nathaniel Hawthorne's daughter began to care for that first patient, devoured by the dreadful flower of sarcoma, there have been established five such hospitals.

They exist entirely through voluntary contributions. They are not endowed.

The sisters there do all the work. They bandage and clean the terrible wounds. They wash the clothes, the sheets, they do the work of nurses of servants. They are there when the time comes for all that is mortal of man to breathe its last. They are nurses, servants, comforters, and their smiling faces are the last faces the dying person sees before they slip away into what waits beyond.

It restores one's faith in humanity to see them at work. Here, while the world destroys itself, is a harbor where the wrecks of poverty and sarcoma may rest a while before the final tide. Here are women who give their lives to these wrecks of poverty and of sarcoma. Their faces show the work is good.

The Simpleton Who Grinds The Axe Deserves Being Treated As an Inferior

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

If one of your neighbors makes plans to eliminate a competitor by force, and you, in full knowledge of his purpose, provide the dynamite or the shotgun that does the killing, both laws and common sense hold you guilty as an accessory. You are a partner in the crime of murder.

It is one thing to help a man defend himself, and morally a quite different thing to help him attack another. In one case you share his innocence, in the other you share his guilt.

You and I share the guilt when Japanese bombers kill and maim thousands of Chinese men, women and children, whose only fault is their refusal to surrender to a foreign master.

We may try to ease our consciences by means of the usual alibi that we ourselves are not engaged in the export business, and therefore have no part in supplying Japan's tools of war; but this is a free republic, and citizens of a free land cannot escape responsibility for what their country does. The government represents us and acts in our name. The wrong it permits is our wrong.

That wrong consists in underwriting Japan's war on China. Year after year, as other nations stopped exporting, we have furnished a larger and larger percentage of the materials Japan must have to make war. At present we are supplying 93 per cent of her copper, almost 90 per cent of her ferro-alloys, 95 per cent of her scrap iron, and 85 per cent of her petroleum.

We, the free people who hate tyrants, are sponsors of every butchery in China. Without our help, Japan could not continue the war another month.

The help we give is not limited to the furnishing of war supplies. We also provide the cash that enables Japan to postpone bankruptcy.

With all other great nations at war, we provide the only remaining market for luxury goods. We buy all but a fraction of Japan's raw silk, and the $120,000,000 we pay for it enables her to buy the foreign exchange she must have to pay for imports.

We alone support her, yet we are afraid she might attack us if we tried to protect our interests in Asia. How could she make war on us if we alone enable her to make war on China?

Our reward for keeping her strong is the shame and humiliation of being cowed by her strength.

Discovers Expert Who Can Bring Happiness to All

This world of ours is full of troubles and tribulations.

We are worried about Communism, Hitlerism, notes due at the Super - Optimistic Finance Company, how to keep the lady dog safely shut up, and whether our daughter will elope with that handsome young chap from the filling station or our son insist upon wedding that blond waitress at Charley's—and we couldn't blame him much because we've seen her, and oh, boy—but as we were saying, we shouldn't let these little things disturb us.

Because we've just been reading an advertisement by a professor, in a weekly newspaper owned and edited by one of our foremost uplifters who would scorn to accept an advertisement for beer. And perhaps, cigarette.

At least, no cigarette copy is in the current issue we peruse.

However, this guardian of the public is willing to disseminate useful information to his readers and thereby render a great public service.

Joy Guaranteed

I shall not divulge the precise location of this great solver of domestic and other problems, lest the highways be clogged with traffic. But I venture to quote the text of his message to the world—marked P. D. Adv. in the weekly from which I lift it:

"FAMOUS PSYCHIC MEDIUM." "I solemnly swear to make no charge unless you find me superior to any other reader. I further guarantee and promise to make no charge if I fail to fulfill every word in this statement. I read past, present, future, give names-date and facts that you wish to know without asking questions. There is no home so dreary or heart so sad that I cannot bring joy and sunshine. I guarantee to speedily reunite the separated and cause happy marriages and help overcome stumbling blocks of all

Adopted Dachshund

Despite the domestic embroglios out at our house over the excavating twin pups we find ourselves the possessor of an orphan. He has been adopted only temporarily—perhaps.

He is a miniature dachshund, known to fanciers as red, but actually more yellow. I don't know his name nor his age, but he seems beyond puppyhood. He is well trained, of a sweet disposition and apparently of excellent ancestry.

More than a week ago he appeared at a home in Brookwood Hills, seeking food and lodging. He remained a house guest for a week, but his host couldn't well look after a dog, and turned him over to the Atlanta Humane Society. A few days ago the manager there, knowing my interest in dachshunds, asked me to help find the owner. I went out to look at the stray and adopted him. If the former owner will identify the orphan and prove ownership his lost pet will cheerfully be returned. My address is in the phone book. He can contribute, if he feels that way, to the Humane Society.

Speaking of dogs, which I usually am, I am requested to mention National Dog Week, September 22-28. It has already been well publicized by Ruth Stanton Cogill, our dog editor, but I'm glad to add my bit.

Next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock there is to be a dog show at North Fulton Park, conducted by the Atlanta Kennel Club. But what I want to see is the pet parade of pups shown by children dogs of high and low degree whose ancestry is not to be under investigation. That ought to be a lot of fun.

Informing Stockholders

Interesting series of booklets is being published and distributed by the Georgia Department of Public Welfare, formerly headed by Braswell Deen and more recently by Dr. Joseph M. Branch. They are prepared, I understand, by Paul Stevenson, a veteran and able Atlanta newspaperman, now connected with the department.

The booklets on my desk, handsomely illustrated, deal with improvements brought about by the Rivers administration at the School for the Deaf, the Academy for the Blind, the Training School for Boys and Training School for Girls.

As all these are the property of the people of Georgia, it seems well that they are given this opportunity to see what has been accomplished in remodeling and improving those institutions, several of which had been badly neglected.

'Red Flag' Upsets Parley, Proves To Be Knitting

ST. PAUL, Sept. 18.—(P)—A momentary furor was caused in the Minnesota State Federation of Labor convention when a delegate arose to protest that a spectator in the gallery was "waving a red flag."

A sergeant-at-arms found the "red flag" was a piece of knitting brought by a woman spectator who placidly continued to knit one, purl two during the flurry.

BUILDING WAREHOUSE.

ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 18.—W. B. and J. T. Hall, Albany brothers, who, in addition to many other activities, find time to be among Georgia's largest farmers, have started construction of a large warehouse for the storage of farm products. The structure will be 64 by 176 feet, with concrete floors, metal roof and of frame construction.

'Guilt' Charges Presbyterians Name Gamelin Will Dedicate And Daladier Church Sunday

Two of Leaders Held To Go on Trial for War Blame.

VICHY, Sept. 18.—(P)—The government announced today that definite charges have been placed against Edouard Daladier, former premier, and General Maurice Gamelin, both of whom are in administrative custody in the Chateau Chazeron near Rion in the "war blame" case. The nature of the charges was not disclosed.

Filing of the charges means the men will be placed on trial. No date has been fixed. Daladier, Gamelin, former Premiers Paul Reynaud and Leon Blum and former Minister Georges Mandel all are held in the old chateau under a decree which allows the present government of Marshal Philippe Petain to intern in "the administrative interest" any person deemed by it to be dangerous to the national security.

No specific charge has been lodged against Reynaud, Mandel or Blum.

Tax Distribution Talk By Scott Candler Set

DeKalb County Commissioner Scott Candler will talk on the distribution of tax money at the first autumn meeting of the Clairmont Civic Club at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the courthouse at Decatur.

Officers of the club, organized last spring, are Dr. D. W. Leary, president; Bob Watkins, vice president, and Mrs. Dorothy Young, secretary. Residents of the Clairmont section and Decatur are invited.

Good Morning—By Louie D. Newton

The mail on the column the other day about scuppernongs has been quite interesting, ranging in comment from the man who writes: "It was under a scuppernong vine in western North Carolina 60 years ago this September that I received her final 'I will," to the one who writes: "Sure, I know something about these scuppernongs. Very well do I remember the night when coming home from a party I climbed over into a neighbor's yard to pick some scuppernongs and reached up in the dark and took hold of a snake. I jerked my arm out of socket..."

And then there was the letter that said: "Why didn't you tell us what scuppernongs look like. I have never seen one. I was reared in Nova Scotia." And the one that said: "I was about 10 years old when one day I climbed atop my grandmother's scuppernong arbor, and was having the time of my life until I stepped on a rotter piece of frame and fell, breaking my leg in three places. I have limped ever since, but the scuppernongs were worth it."

Ben Stovall, an Atlanta businessman, breaks into verse in his letter about the column on scuppernongs:

The autumn is rich with the flowers and leaves,
With their purples and crimsons and blues.
It is lavish with colors, of green and of gold,
Mixed with dozens of in-between hues.

While the ether is filled with delectable scents,
From the fruits of the woods and the fields,
As benevolent Nature sends wave upon wave
To apprise of her bountiful yields.

But of all the aromas that sweeten the air
And awaken the poets to song, tell there is none with more promise of mortal delight
Than the odor of ripe scuppernongs!

Every farm home, and most of the city homes, could have a scuppernong vine, if only we would take a little while some day this winter to get a small vine and plant it, and then build an arbor for it next spring. In three or four years it will be bearing a rich yield of tasty and delightful harvest. Somehow, a home is not quite complete without a scuppernong vine. There is a wealth of romance bound up in the history of this great institution. You will enjoy it in your day and generation, and generations yet unborn will rise up and call you blessed for having planted a scuppernong vine.

Marble Here To Push Drive For War Gifts

Champion Women's Tennis Player of World Examines New Posters

By CAROLYN MCKENZIE.

Alice Marble, the tall, thin, blond Venus of the tennis court, was in Atlanta yesterday to carry on her support of the British War Relief fund. She related her feelings for the English and their current plight with a sigh for the people of the island kingdom.

She has visited in England, played tennis there, and from her four trips abroad, has come to learn and love the European people, among whom her favorites are the British. She likes them because they're hospitable, and most nearly like her own native Americans.

And so Alice pities the British. She thinks they're getting a raw deal, that the Nazi bombings are without any feeling of humanitarianism. And so she has worked for the British, given radio talks and various support to them; and she carried her help even further yesterday by examining some new posters released by the Atlanta office of the British War Relief Fund.

The slender world's champion wore a green tailored street dress, gathered at the waist and with a full skirt, with gold buttons and a small ornament of rhinestones and several other jewels in the shape of a tennis player. She wore the ever-popular brown and white spectator pumps and is possessed of a large amount of femininity despite her participation in such a strenuous athletic game.

Alice never went to college. She has delved into many fields other than tennis, however, not the least of which is her lecture tour when she gives her talk on "Wit of Wind," which is her life story showing how she overcame ill health, and many other hardships, to become the world's No. 1 woman tennis player.

She likes golf, is a professional singer, and often goes as long as five or six weeks without even touching a tennis racket. When she completes her present tour, she'll go on a lecture swing over the country appearing at schools, colleges and clubs. For several months then, she'll leave off tennis.

Takes Active Interest. With Donald Budge, Alice has taken an active interest in the British War Relief Fund. They have given speeches on the subject and both feel sorry for England. She said:

"You see I've been abroad four times and they were so nice to us over there when we played and visited. And so I feel sorry for the poor English."

Alice Marble had a busy morning before her yesterday. She had two letters to get written and mailed and then some shopping to do down town. So, with her omnipotent charm and grace she extended her long, strong arm and gave this reporter the warm, firm grip which she gives her tennis racquet as she knocks a rapid-fire ball around on the tennis court—her paradise for the last eight years.

The world's annual catch of fishery commodities is about 35 billion pounds valued at $761,000,000.

Cool Weather 'Favorable' for State's Crops

'Excellent Progress' Is Made in Picking, Gin- ning of Cotton.

Abnormally cool weather in Georgia last week was "generally favorable" for crops and "decidedly favorable for harvesting all matured crops," the weather bureau reported yesterday.

Temperatures averaged three to six degrees below normal in the week ending Tuesday, but "except for some rather cool nights at many places in northern and central sections" no harm was done.

Only the Atlanta area had a heavy rain during the week, and the bureau said the need for rain in many sections was "serious." Aphids were described as abundant in some fruit orchards and causing serious injury to foliage. "Excellent progress" in the picking and ginning of cotton in the southern and most central sections of the state was reported, along with the start of picking in some northern counties. The cotton crop was called generally good with prospects of about an average yield.

Comments on other crops included: Corn, Irish potatoes and pastures, "fair to good"; sorghums, "mostly in need of rain but doing very well in scattered sections"; peanuts, "maturing favorably"; wheat and oats, "some preliminary preparation of ground where not too dry"; sweet potatoes, "maturing well and in good condition"; pecans, "little improvement"; sugar cane, "fair to very good" and meadows, "weather favorable for making and baling hay."

The harvesting of pears in central and southeastern counties and of grapes in the southeast was reported.

Highway Officials Attending Meeting

Seven state highway officials this week are attending the annual meeting of the American Association of State Highway Officials in Seattle, Wash.

Representing Georgia at the meeting are L. L. Patton and Herman Watson, members of the board; Sam Boykin, secretary-treasurer; G. T. McDonald, assistant engineer in charge of post roads; G. C. Blount, assistant engineer in charge of maintenance; Oliver T. Ray, director of the division of highway planning; and M. C. Bishop, director of the division of traffic and safety.

Traveling expenses for the officials were restricted to transportation by the cheapest route and hotel accommodations during the convention.

Emory Instructor To Serve in Army

Dr. R. T. Brice, instructor in engineering at Emory University, has been granted a year's leave of absence to serve in the artillery division of the industrial service section of the army ordnance department.

Dr. Brice, a reserve captain, was called officially to active duty as of September 1. Now stationed in Washington, D. C., he lived in Atlanta on Emory road. His classes will be taught by Robert H. Rohrer, former mathematics instructor at Emory Junior College.

Other Emory faculty changes, announced yesterday by the administration, include the appointment of Professor James L. Campbell to succeed Dr. J. E. Hedges as instructor in industrial relations and statistics.

White Stray Cat Worth $1,000 to Film Company

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A grayish white stray cat is worth $1,000 to Film Director John Cromwell's company.

Studio spokesmen said that amount was offered for a cat Cromwell used in several scenes with Frances Dee. The day after the cat's camera debut, Cromwell discovered he needed kitty for two more scenes—but she had disappeared. Unless the cat is recovered quickly, the company will be out $5,000 for retakes.

Georgia Health Board Will Meet Tomorrow

The semi-annual meeting of the Georgia Board of Health, Robert F. Maddox, chairman, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the conference room of the State Department of Public Health offices in the new state building, 12 Capitol square.

Mr. Maddox will preside and State Health Director Dr. T. F. Abercrombie will make the report of the six-month period ending June 30.

Officer Good Fireman— It's His House Blazing

GLENDAL, Cal., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Fire Chief Ralph Dodsworth, speeding out on a call, saw Police Captain J. H. Carter flash past. At the fire Dodsworth found Carter just extinguishing the last flames.

"Say, you're a pretty good fireman," said Dodsworth.

"I ought to be," replied Carter. "It's my house."

Pen Women Will Present Mrs. Young and Mr. Harrison

• • • FORMAL INVITATIONS have been extended by the Atlanta Branch of the National League of American Pen Women to the musicale and reception at which the organization will entertain Friday evening at the Biltmore hotel.

The reception, as you recall, is an annual affair, and the musical program will present such gifted artists as Mozelle Horton Young and Robert Harrison.

Guests will don formal attire and assemble in the ballroom of the hotel at 8:30 o'clock, where they will be received by members of the Atlanta Branch of American Pen Women. Artistic floral arrangements will beautify the room, and bowls of delicious punch will be served—to say nothing of the endless array of dainty sandwiches to be prepared for the occasion.

The fete will open with the musicale, Mrs. Young, who needs no introduction to Atlanta music lovers, will present a group of piano selections, including "Overture to the 28th Cantata," Bach-Saint-Saens; the first movement of the "Moonlight Sonata," by Beethoven; three Brahms Waltzes, Opus 39, and "Reverie-Nocturne," Debussy. Mozelle, as you know, is The Constitution's capable music critic, and is one of the most talented pianists in the south.

Mr. Harrison, whose violin programs hold his audiences spell-bound, will then offer a group of selections, Mrs. Charles Chalmers to provide his piano accompaniment. Mr. Harrison has just returned from the Chicago Musical College, where he spent the summer and where his recitals received enthusiastic acclaim. He will play "Chanson Arabe," from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade"; an arrangement by White of the spiritual, "Nobody Knows de Trouble I've Seen"; "Berceuse," from A. Stravinsky's "Fire Bird," and "La Gitana," Kreisler.

Mozelle's second group of selections will include "Clair de Lune" and "Golliwog's Cake-Walk," both by Debussy; "Melodie," Rachmaninoff, and "Malgueza," by Lecuona. Robert will close the program with "The Afternoon of a Faun," Debussy; Heifetz; "Alt Wien," Godowsky; Heifetz; and "Ritual Fire Dance," Falla-Kochanski.

• • • AS SCHOOL DAYS get under way and activities of the younger set go into high, Sally is happy to learn that Mary Campbell Everett, the beautiful young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Everett, has recovered from an illness of many months and has tucked school books under her arm to attend classes at Washington Seminary.

Mary Campbell's illness last year, causing many months to be spent in the hospital, was a cause of deep concern to her friends. But now she is being welcomed again by the younger set. She is attending Phi Pi sorority meetings, is going to a few parties, and has just been informed that she can attend a dance! She is in her junior year at the Seminary and is one of the most popular members of the sub-deb set.

• • • ONE OF Decatur's most accomplished and graceful dancers, lovely Martha Branch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Branch, leaves on Friday for New York City, where she will continue the study of her chosen profession.

Martha, though only 17 years old, has made a name for herself in connection with Dorothy Alexander Dance Art group, of which she has been an ardent member for four years. In addition, she has taken part in various light operas and programs given throughout the state.

Among the ballets presented by the dance art group in which the belle played prominent roles were "Career," "Gypsy Interlude" and "Kasperle."

After Martha's graduation from Decatur Girls' High school last June she was selected as dance instructor at a popular camp for girls in north Georgia, in which position she was so successful she was requested to return next year.

In addition to her studies of ballet, character, plastique and adagio dancing the danseuse will continue her study of English. Martha, who is of the brunet type of beauty, possessing dark brown eyes and hair, will be accompanied to the metropolis by her aunt, Mrs. Roy G. Jones, of Decatur, the latter remaining long enough to assist her charming niece in "getting settled."

• • • ATLANTA SOCIALITES who read the New Orleans Times-Picayune had a pleasant surprise recently, for a great deal of space on the front page of the society section was devoted to a natural-color photograph of Mrs. Eben Hardie Jr. and her handsome young children, Ruth and Eben III.

The caption with the picture

Mr. and Mrs. James Humber Jr., of Clarkdale, Miss., are shown leaving the Emory Theological chapel after their marriage, which was a recent social event. Mrs. Humber is the former Miss Ninette Carter, popular daughter of Mrs. H. G. Carter.

read: "Mrs. Eben Hardie Jr., pictured with her children, Ruth and Eben III. They and Mr. Hardie have been spending the past few weeks at Fort Walton, Fla., in a party with the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin S. Fenner, and their children. They will all return Tuesday."

Mrs. Hardie, as you know, is the former Ruth Miller, and one of Atlanta's most popular belles before her marriage to Eben took her to New Orleans for residence. Petite and attractive, Ruth has

Habersham DAR Members To Hear State Regent

Mrs. Fred C. Rice, regent, will preside over the meeting of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., at 3 o'clock today at the chapter house on Fifteenth street.

Mrs. Thomas C. Mell, state regent, will be speaker, her subject to be "The History of the National Society D. A. R.," chosen for the purpose of carrying out the program outlined for the year. Mrs. James N. Brawner, state chairman of the golden jubilee of the National Society, D. A. R., will speak of her work.

Mrs. W. P. Dunn, first vice regent and chairman of programs, will introduce Mrs. Andrew Marshall, who has arranged an attractive program of American music. Misses Frances and Floriana Stewart will play a cornet duet by John Philip Sousa, and will be accompanied by Mrs. Andrew Marshall. They will play the popular song, "God Bless America," with the audience joining in the chorus.

Mrs. Clyde Roberts will give readings by Henry VanDyke, "The Ancestral Dwelling," and his poem, "America," accompanied by Mrs. Marshall on the piano. After the meeting tea will be served by Mrs. Fannie May Dabney and Mrs. T. J. Ripley. Visiting D. A. R. friends are invited to attend.

Seniors Elect Officers.

The immaculate Conception seniors, in keeping with the state election day, elected the following officers: President, Laurie Shikany; vice president, Patsy Keegan; secretary, Albert Karst; treasurer, Eva Simon. The regular monthly will be held on the first Tuesday of each month.

A wide circle of friends in her adopted home and has made an enviable place for herself in that city's fashionable social circles.

Committees Are Appointed By Mrs. Esmond Walthall

Mrs. Owen C. McConnell talked before the junior group of Atlanta D. A. R. at the recent meeting held at the home of Mrs. Marion C. Pruitt on Briarcliff road with Mesdames H. M. Thompson and F. Homer Bell as co-hostesses. The chairman, Mrs. Esmond Walthall presided. Mrs. Pat Gilen, senior president of Dolly Madison Society, C. A. R., sponsored by the group, announced that the society tied for first place for the greatest increase in membership and led the state in the number of meetings held during the year.

Mrs. Robert Caldwell, Red Cross chairman, reported 107 hours in surgical dressings workroom, eight sweaters knitted and one bolt of sheets made by members. Reports were made by Miss Sarah Hoshall, first vice chairman; Mrs. Julia Felton, second vice chairman; Mrs. H. M. Thompson, recording secretary; Mrs. Tom Johnson, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. James Threlkeld, treasurer.

Mrs. Walthall appointed the following committees: Red Cross, Mrs. Ben Hines, chairman; Mesdames Edmund Daub, Marcellus D. R. Von Redlich and T. M. McCleskey. Program, Mrs. Robert Scott and Mrs. Warren Foster.

Social, Mrs. Martin Myers, chairman; Miss Evelyn Knowles, Mesdames Forrest Barfield, Lloyd Davis, Tom Ellis and Miss Carolyn McCarty, Publicity, Mrs. Roland Neeson and Miss Sarah Hoshall.

Junior American Citizenship Clubs, Miss Dorothy Waldman, Mesdames Reuben A. Garland, V. F. Cooper, Marion C. Pruitt, O. T. Ray, George Connell and H. M. Thompson. C. A. R., Mrs. Pat Gilen. National (Historical) Magazine, Mrs. Robert Caldwell. Telephone, Mrs. Thomas L. Hoshall Jr., chairman; Mesdames Guy Crawford, Charles Davis, Hinton Blackshear, N. S. Soper and Miss Nellie Jane Gaertner. Membership, Mrs. Spotswood Parker. Scrapbook, Mrs. Dixon Fowler and Mrs. F. W. Conrade.

Ellis Island, Mrs. Robert Jones, chairman; Mesdames F. Homer Bell, Frank Baskin, James Threlkeld, W. F. Milburn, Hollis Morris and Miss Janie Near. Americanization: Mrs. Ransom Burt, chairman; Mesdames Robert H. Perkins, Garland Porter, B. F. Walder, Harvie Perkins and Miss Marquerite McKay. Time and place, Mrs. Julia Felton, Kate Duncan Smith school, Mrs. Hugh Dobbins, chairman; Mesdames Howard Harman, Tom Johnson, J. B. Kilbride and Irwin Hyatt.

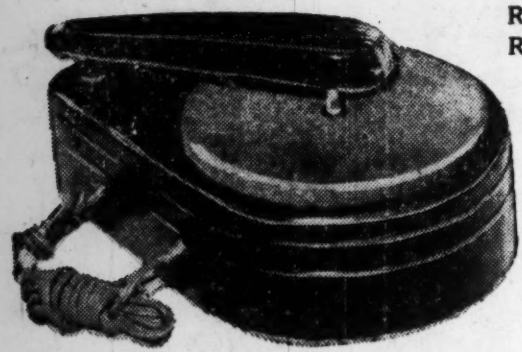

Mrs. Parker introduced Mrs. Hinton Blackshear as a new member. Mrs. Walthall announced that Mrs. John W. Rice, regent, of Atlanta chapter, appointed Mrs. Frank Baskin, as chairman for Good Citizenship Pilgrim. Mrs. Reuben A. Garland, state chairman for junior membership, announced that the state junior assembly will be held in Atlanta on November 9. The Joseph Habersham Juniors will be co-hostesses with the Atlanta Juniors. Members were invited to attend the meeting of the Atlanta Chapter at Craigie House, on September 14, and the bridge party sponsored by the chapter at the Piedmont Driving Club on September 19. Miss Evelyn Knowles read a poem on being a good member.

To Honor Pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Floyd Johnson will keep "open house" at their home, 980 Waverly way, N. E., Friday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock, honoring their pastor, Samuel A. Cowan, on his anniversary. Members of Euclid Avenue Baptist church and friends of Mr. Cowan are invited.

Mary Pickford Offers "Pickfair" To the California British Consul To Use for Refugee Children

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18.—Rosalind Russell would like to break her contract at Metro. It's more than a year now since Roz made a picture in the home studio. And if she were free-lancing, she could make half a million dollars a year. In the past 12 months she has been loaned out to Columbia ("His Girl Friday"), Warner ("No Time for Comedy") and Universal ("Hired Wife"). And she is now back at Columbia for "This Thing Called Love," with still no sign of a picture for her on the home lot. I understand that Metro gets some fancy prices for lending Rosalind. And she would naturally like to get her hands on some of it. Also she would like to accept an offer for a weekly broadcast. I advise Metro executives to raise Miss Russell's pay and keep this goldmine in the family.

Jane Preisser had quite a problem when she danced with Mickey Rooney in "Strike Up the Band." She is taller than Mickey—as is Judy Garland. And both gals had to kick off their shoes for all scenes in which their feet did not show. According to June, she wore out dozens of pairs of stockings this way. The problem of getting a leading lady shorter than Mickey may be solved by assigning him the tiny Mrs. William Powell for future films.

Virginia Field has received a cable from Richard Greene in which he says he has arrived safely and "knows nothing about the future." Richard's action in going directly to England proves conclusively that his recent attempt to join the army in Canada was not a publicity stunt. . . . After Charles's review course for charity at the local El Capitan theater, "What Price Glory" goes on, with Merle Oberon, Clark Gable and Spencer

SHEILA GRAHAM has run her course for charity at the local El Capitan theater, "What Price Glory" goes on, with Merle Oberon, Clark Gable and Spencer

Tracy in the leads. Sounds wonderful. The proceeds will go to the Australian medical supplies fund.

Mary Pickford has offered "Pickfair," the home she built with the late Douglas Fairbanks, to the British consul here to use for refugee children. It's a generous gesture. . . . Tyrone Power and Annabella go to Canada and from there to Alaska after "The Californian" is "canceled." Hedy LaMarr sits opposite Mrs. Paul Muni at a recent dinner party and watches wistfully while Mrs. Muni downs potatoes and bread. "Oh, I wish I could eat that, too," says Hedy. "That's my advantage over you glamorous girls," crows Muni's better half. Hedy, by the way, has made herself sick by overeating, and they are shooting around her on "Comrade X."

Orson Welles calls his Dolores Del Rio—"Lolita." Incidentally, Gregg Toland, who is among the three best cameramen in Hollywood, and now working with Orson on "Citizen Kane," says that Orson is a genius and that "Citizen Kane" will be the best picture of this or any year. Release is tentatively set for January 3. . . . Laraine Day exhibits an engagement ring on the "Doctor Kildare" set, but it is only for the picture—she's Lew's fiancée. "In my day," reminisces Mr. Ayres, "I've given two engagement rings and two wedding rings, and I got one of them flung back in my face!" Now I wonder which of Lew's two brides did that—Ginger Rogers or Lola Lane?

Hollywood is pretty evenly divided on the Democrat and Republican Presidential ticket. Here are some of those rooting for Roosevelt—Claudette Colbert, James Cagney, Rosalind Russell, Charlie Chaplin, Paulette Goddard and Pat O'Brien. Willkie supporters include—Robert Montgomery, Adolphe Menjou, Frank Morgan, Ann Sothern, Louis B. Mayer and George Murphy. And here are some in-betweeners—Ray Milland, who says he'd vote for Willkie if conditions were more settled, but not if the war in Europe keeps on; Wayne Morris, ditto, and Harpo Marx, who says he's going to vote for both to insure getting the best man!

Sight of the week . . . Jeanette MacDonald's car is outside her Hollywood office. A couple of tourists come along and discover whose car it is. They goth get inside, hand their camera to the first passer-by, and have their picture taken in Miss MacDonald's car!

Tone Muscles Against Age Signs

By Ida Jean Kain

If you want to hold your own against middle-age, you can do it best by keeping the muscles of the abdominal wall in prime condition.

There is nothing so senescent as a flabby, rotund stomach. Not only is it the stamp of middle age, but it is a detractor from well being and actually makes you older.

This muscular girdle is not just for looks. To be sure, if it is strong, you have a lithe, streamlined figure. But most important, the vital organs are all held up in their proper places—the arrangement which permits them to function perfectly.

When these muscles lose tone the organs sag and the efficiency of the entire system is lessened. Because our mode of living tends to weaken this muscular girdle, a few daily exercises are in order for everyone. Some of the best abdominal exercises are those which are taken with the hips elevated so that gravity assists in putting the organs back in place.

Lie on the back on the floor with the feet resting on a low chair-seat. Raise the hips off the floor until the body is in a straight line with weight resting on head and shoulders. Hold for a second, then lower to floor. Repeat for six counts.

Progress by flexing the right knee and placing the sole of the right foot against the left thigh, then as the hips are lifted off the floor, press down with the right knee. Hold, lower to floor, and perform with left knee flexed. Continue for six counts.

The third exercise is strenuous and should not be attempted by beginners. Or anyone with high blood pressure! It is the wall walk and it will certainly straighten you out!

Lie on the back on the floor with the buttocks against the wall, knees flexed to chest, and soles of feet flat on wall. In this starting position the small of the back is pressed against the floor, the abdominal wall retracted. Now walk up the wall until the body is in a straight line, weight supported on the shoulders. Then slowly slide feet down wall, keeping legs straight. Try to feel each segment of your spine touch the floor until the buttocks are again on the floor with legs straight up the wall. Keep the lower abdominal muscles pulled up and in through the exercise. Rest for a minute and repeat. Six times in all will be plenty.

If you are definitely overweight, smaller meals and fewer calories are in order. Here's your diet:

For the sake of variety, send for Ida Jean Kain's leaflet "Abdominal Exercises." Please enclose stamped return envelope to Miss Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia.

After Consulting Physician Disregard Your Own Opinion

By Dr. William Brady.

E. E. B. writes: I think your counsel on rabies is well taken and reasonably developed, with one exception. Quoting in part:

"I fear the possible ill effects of Pasteur treatment . . . myself would not take it under any circumstances." But—

"If your physician advises Pasteur treatment, by all means accept his advice."

This is equivalent to saying that after consulting a physician one should never under any circumstances use his own judgment, even if he becomes convinced that the physician is a brainless and prejudiced sap.

Possibly you do not share my conviction that there are degrees between the status physician and the status god, nor admit that some who never attended medical school have the rudiments of a brain.

(E. E. B.) Brain or no brain, I said that was my belief and advice. I personally would not take so-called Pasteur anti-rabies treatment in any circumstances. I am afraid of possible ill effects from such virus and I doubt that it has any remedial value.

At the same time I believe and advise that if you have a physician at all you should follow his advice regardless of what you, with your superior intelligence, may think about it—or else fire the doctor and take charge of the case yourself.

If I were bitten or scratched or clawed or otherwise wounded by animal or bird, whether or not there were any suspicion of rabies, I'd want the wound immediately treated by a physician as any infected wound is treated. I'd want an immediate injection of anti-tetanus serum, and perhaps the second dose of the anti-tetanus serum (against lockjaw) a week later. That is all the treatment I'd want, no matter whether the animal or bird that bit me was mad or rabid or just annoyed or playful.

I'd have no medieval attempts at cauterizing my wound with "fuming nitric acid." If the doctor considered the wound required it of course he would immediately excise the badly infected or damaged tissue. But no crude cauterizing for mine, thank you, no matter what politician thinks "fuming nitric acid" is the only agent which will "destroy rabies virus."

Pert Campus Style

By Lillian Mae.

Working girl . . . schoolgirl . . . or just busy young miss about town—Pattern 4580 by Lillian Mae is a frock you'll really need! This skirt with its bias front panel has the jaunty flare girls adore. And the waist-seam swoops to a high point for that grand "slim-away" look. There are nicely bloused lines in the yoked bodice, and long, three-quarter or short sleeves. Make the bow-tying sash just in back, or for greater effectiveness, let it come from the front—either from the panel seams or stitched right on top. Wouldn't the prim little collar and the sash be lively in velvet on a frock of plaid or checked wool? Pattern 4580 is available in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17. Size 13 takes 3-1/2 yards 36-inch fabric and 3-4 yard contrast.

Here, incidentally, in this man's world, is one of the rare instances where the girl has an apparent advantage over the man. Yet ironically enough, even when the girl claims she gave the air to the boy friend and when he by his silence gives consent to the tale, the real truth, like murder, generally cuts; for a girl whose heart and pride are hurt usually squeals and gives it away.

More irony: A man courts a girl and loses her and in time everybody forgets it. But let a girl lose a fiancé by the jilting route and as long as she lives—even down to old age—there's somebody to tell you about her disappointment. In view of all this, why should a man hesitate to hold his tongue when his ex-girl says she gave him the air?

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

MY DAY: Old Friend To Help In Campaign

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY.—I paid a visit yesterday morning to the Democratic national headquarters, and to my delight found my old and dear friend, Miss Molly Dewson, back to help in the campaign. Mrs. Dorothy McAllister, who is in charge of the women's division, told me with great joy of her arrival, and I went at once in search of her and found her looking up all her old friends.

She was chatting in Mrs. Charles Michelson's office and we visited several other people together. We wanted to see Mr. Farley and Mr. Flynn, but both the gentlemen were out. I imagine Molly went back again. Later, I succeeded in seeing Mr. Flynn for a few minutes, but unfortunately was unable to be there when Mr. Farley was in his office.

I had not seen Miss Dewson for some time, but I felt as every one else did—enthusiastic over her return. I always like to go to see Mrs. McAllister and all the others who are working so hard at the national headquarters, but I shall enjoy it doubly now that Molly's dry humor will be there to light up every incident.

Last night I dined with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, affiliated with the AFL. It was the 15th anniversary of their biennial convention. These men have made life comfortable and pleasant for me on many long journeys, and I know that they had a long, hard fight before they gained recognition of their union.

I did not know until Mayor LaGuardia spoke that he had been one of the people at their first organization meetings. I am constantly finding where there has been a struggle for the rights of labor and for the recognition of human values, regardless of race, creed or color, that the mayor of New York City has been in it from the start. If satisfaction has finally come in the gains of freedom and justice meted out to any groups of human beings, he can take pride in their achievement because he has carried his share of the fight.

It was quite a lengthy party and the breakfast hour this morning arrived all too soon. I had to hurry to be ready when my doorbell rang to announce Franklin Jr. and Mr. Lanther were on hand to take me to the steamer to meet Mr. Leopold Stokowski and the National Youth Symphony Orchestra, which has been touring South America. They were very good before they left, but I am sure, from all the accounts which I have heard, that they are even better now.

I am told that their performances have made a vast difference in the way that people feel about the United States and American countries. The 16 girls in the orchestra have created so much comment that they say the position of women in orchestras will be changed for all time in consequence.

THE WOMAN'S QUIZ

Q. Is a heavy frost necessary to make persimmons edible?

A. Experts of the Department of Agriculture say that much of the ripe fruit is lost because of the belief that persimmons are unfit to eat until they have been touched by frost. Early varieties may ripen in August, and the fruit of very late varieties may hang on the trees until February. Freezing injures the quality of persimmons, like most other fruits. Ripe persimmons are soft, and the flesh is usually yellowish. Tannin causes the strong astringent taste of the unripe fruit. When ripe, biochemical changes take place which result in the disappearance of the astringency.

Q. What is the food value of papaws?

A. They are relatively low in water content compared with other fruits and correspondingly high in solids, which are chiefly carbohydrates. The fuel value is about 435 calories per pound, which is higher than most fruits. Neither the mineral nor vitamin content has been determined.

Carrollton Belle Weds Mr. Vance At Church Rites

CARROLLTON, Ga., Sept. 18. The marriage of Miss Luta Boykin Herndon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Herndon, of Carrollton, to Joseph Lewis Vance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vance, of Bowdon, took place this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock here. Rev. Zach Hayes Jr. officiated at the Carrollton First Methodist church.

A musical program was presented by Mrs. Joe Aycock, organist; Miss Mary Lou New, soloist, and Mrs. Frank Kimble, violinist. Groomsmen were Connie Bird and Dillard Wood, of Bowdon; Claude Griffin and Tom Durham, of LaGrange, and Hubert Griffin and Tom Herndon, brother of the bride, of Carrollton.

Mrs. R. O. Waters Jr., of Hamilton, was matron of honor. Maryanne Vincent, cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer. They wore gowns of dusty rose taffeta, and halo hats of matching shade and material, trimmed with fuchsia velvet ribbon. Mrs. Waters carried a nosegay of pastel flowers, and Miss Vincent carried the ring in a lily.

Mrs. Tom Durham, of LaGrange, sister of the groom; Mrs. Madison Fowler Jr., of Marietta; Misses Kennon Herndon and Jane Luck, of Carrollton, were bridesmaids. Miss Frances Beaury, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore aqua taffeta gowns and their flowers and hats were similar to the matron of honor's. The bridesmaids wore pearls, gifts of the bride.

The bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and John Wilson, who served as best man. The bride was gown in ivory satin fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice. Her veil of illusion was fitted to her head with a coronet of orange blossoms. The lace trimming on her dress and her handkerchief was made by her grandmother, Mrs. S. J. Boykin Sr., and worn in one of her mother's trousseau gowns. She carried a bouquet of white purple-throated orchids and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, belonging to her mother.

The bride's mother wore a gown of blue lace and shoulder spray of sweetheart roses. The groom's mother chose a gown of blue crepe offset by a shoulder bouquet of pink roses. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Herndon entertained at a reception at their home. Misses Mary Caroline Turner, Mary Davidson and Martha Stone kept the bride's book. Assisting were Misses Evelyn Ballard, Jane Mandeville, Louise Tyus, Virginia Shouse, Celeste Long, Mary Cheney, Libby Boykin, Lee Roberts and Mesdames Gene Hughes, Hugh Hosh, John Beaury, R. B. Hubbard, Olin Ivey, Horace Stewart, Shirley Boykin, S. J. Boykin Jr. and B. F. Boykin.

Mr. Vance and his bride left for a wedding trip to Washington, New York, and other points of interest. Mrs. Vance chose for traveling a wine costume suit trimmed with fox fur. Her hat was wine and other accessories were black suede. She wore a shoulder cluster of orchids.

Atlantans present were Dr. Claude Griffin, Mrs. Monica Kenman, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brodnax, Mrs. M. M. Bradley, Miss Lola Beck, Ralph McGowan and Bill Tucker.

O'Keefe High School Holds Annual Picnic.

O'Keefe Junior High school, of which S. M. Hastings is principal, met for the 14th annual fall picnic for the faculty, members, their families, and friends recently at Lakemoore. Good Will Center Board To Meet

Mr. N. N. Campbell, supervisor of the Kate P. Dawson Good Will Center, announces the fall meeting of the board to be held at the center, 665 Wells street, Friday at 10:30 o'clock with the sixth district, Mrs. F. G. Chandler, secretary, presenting the program.

Mrs. J. W. Parker, of the Jackson Hill Baptist church, will lead the devotional. Special music by Mrs. J. L. Henderson and Mrs. U. G. Buckner, of Lakewood Heights Baptist church, will be a feature.

This center has been owned and operated by Baptist Women's Missionary Union, of the Atlanta association since 1911. Seventy-five Baptist churches in the association with a total number of 405 W. M. U. organizations will have a part in this worthy cause. The West End Baptist church, led by the pastor, Dr. John F. Purser, first made the beginning in missionary efforts in this section by holding preaching services and Sunday school in a small store on Glenn street. From this small but significant beginning there is now an adequate modern building to care for 50 children now enrolled in the nursery.

A daily vacation Bible school has been an annual event since 1921. One hundred and fifteen were enrolled this year, with 25 teachers and helpers. The Stewart Avenue Baptist church is the church home of the people of this community and co-operates with the center.

Miss Carrie Bockelman has been director since 1934. Other officers are Mrs. C. E. Chapman, secretary; Mrs. T. H. Wingfield, pianist; Mrs. J. L. Henderson, chorister; Mrs. W. W. Crocker, treasurer.

South Carolina Club Gives Heirloom Tea.

An unusual event of Tuesday was the heirloom tea given by the South Carolina Club at Gala Hill, home of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Steedman. Cherished heirlooms from all parts of South Carolina were exhibited in the library, including such valuable objects as the Heyward Prayerbook, owned and used by Thomas Heyward, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and loaned by a descendant, Mrs. Hanson McNamara; a "Ruth and Naomi" pitcher, cited by Josiah Wedgwood, and one of the rarest of the famous English potters' designs, exhibited by Miss Dorothy Sheppard; a silver candlestick and snuffer, loaned by Mrs. R. L. DeLoache; old-time coral breastpin, shown by Mrs. W. Alston; a large Chantilly rug from "Bleak Hall," on Edisto Island, loaned by Mrs. M. G. Campbell, a Confederate newspaper printed on wallpaper and a black lace mantilla, exhibited by Miss Marguerite Steedman.

Mrs. Gordon Grant played old-time songs; and a number of Confederate war songs were played on recordings.

The table in the dining room was covered with a cloth of antique Irish lace, and punch was served from a flower-bedecked bowl. Mrs. O. R. Randall, Mrs. J. H. Lorenz and Mrs. W. J. Mitchell assisted in entertaining.

Receiving the 85 guests were the president of the organization, Mrs. C. H. Whetstone, Mrs. W. R. Granberry, hostess of the club; Mrs. W. K. Steedman and Miss Marguerite Steedman.

Miss Tuntás And Mr. Demetry Wed at Church

The marriage of Miss Chrysanthia Tuntás, daughter of Mrs. Nick Tuntás, of Detroit, Mich., son of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Demetry, of Toledo, Ohio, was solemnized last evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Hellenic Orthodox church. Rev. Panos Constantinides performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends of the couple and a program of music was presented by Antigone Papageorge.

The altar of the church was banked with palms interspersed with candelabra holding burning white tapers. Ushers were Euripides Papageorge, Demetrius Papageorge, Thomas Demetry, of Detroit, Mich., and John Matrangos.

Miss Marie Sheram was maid of honor. She was gown in heavy white crepe fashioned along straight lines and designed with a full draped effect in the back. Gold Persian embroidery was effectively used to trim the gown and a Persian headress completed her costume. She carried a bouquet of white water lilies.

Miss Helen Demetry, of Toledo, Ohio, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore a gown designed like that worn by the matron-maid of honor, and carried a bouquet of white water lilies. Little Miss Catherine Tuntás, flower girl, wore white chiffon trimmed in gold.

The lovely bride entered with her uncle, Charles P. Alexion, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Harry D. Fotou. She wore marble white bridal crepe designed along straight simple lines with the skirt extending into a long fan-shaped train in the back. The bodice was designed with a square neckline encrusted in gold and crystal beads and the long sleeves ended in point over the hands. Her veil of marble white chiffon was draped in Persian style and was caught to her hair with gold and crystal pendants. She carried a white prayer book adorned with lotus buds.

After the ceremony Mrs. Tuntás, mother of the bride, entertained the wedding guests at a reception at the Biltmore hotel.

The hostess received her guests wearing a gown of blue crepe adorned with a spray of purple orchids.

Mrs. C. Demetry chose for her son's wedding a model of black crepe trimmed with white lace. A shoulder bouquet of purple orchids completed her costume. Mrs. C. P. Alexion, aunt of the bride, wore black and white crepe and a shoulder spray of purple orchids.

Miss Nelly Rogers, of Greensboro, N. C., kept the bride's book and Mesdames John Tuntás, George Economy and Miss Sophie Pedakis, of Pensacola, Fla., assisted in entertaining.

Mr. Demetry and his bride left for a wedding trip and after September 23 they will reside in Detroit, Mich., where the groom is affiliated in business.

Mrs. Demetry chose for traveling a costume suit of dark green wool with which she wore a scarf of sables adorned with a shoulder spray of yellow butterfly orchids.

Among out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. James Pedakis, Miss Sophia Pedakis, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hackney and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stachinos, of Pensacola, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. George Peleakis and Miss Dena Peleakis, of Birmingham, Ala.; Colonel and Mrs. J. Townsend Cassedy, of Newburgh, N. Y.; William Trufant Foster, of Boston, Mass.; Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Cocke, of Asheville, N. C.; Petro Lamas, Nick Mamalakis, Arthur Kilgakis and Miss Polly Constantine, of Savannah, and Mr. and Mrs. George Nickolson, of Augusta.

Meeting Held.

The Peachtree Heights Garden Club met recently with Mrs. H. K. Brainerd, at her home on Springdale drive, with Mrs. Gordon Hiles Jr. as co-hostess. Mrs. Charles B. Daniel read a chapter on flower arrangement. It was decided to join the woman's auxiliary of the Grady hospital. Mrs. George A. Lafitte won the high score in the flower arrangement contest, and Mrs. H. G. Heininger was a visitor.

Amoma Class Meets.

The Amoma Class of the Capital View Baptist church met recently at the home of Mabel Caraway.

Miss Mary Deupree Eckford Weds Mr. Sell at Athens Rites

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 18.—The First Presbyterian church here formed the setting Saturday evening for the marriage of Miss Mary Deupree Eckford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gates Eckford, and Edward Scott Sell, Jr., of this city and Macon, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scott Sell.

Dr. E. L. Hill and Rev. C. P. Willcox officiated at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the young couple. During the ceremony a musical program was presented by Michael McDowell.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated with palms and smilax, and tall pedestal baskets held Easter lilies and gladioli. Flanking the decorations on either side and placed amid the greenery were cathedral candelabra holding white tapers.

Ushers were Deupree Hunnicutt Jr., of this city, cousin of the bride; James Barrow, Milton Richardson, of Atlanta; and Ramsey, of Macon; Dameron Black, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Atlanta.

Miss Eleanor Eckford, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and was becomingly gowned in a model of turquoise taffeta, fashioned with a bouffant-tiered skirt trimmed in a matched shade of velvet. The waist was made with a square neck and short puffed sleeves. She carried and old-fashioned nosegay of pastel shaded roses, asters and delphinium.

The bridesmaids were Misses Catherine Tift, of Atlanta; Flora Hunnicutt, cousins of the bride; Laura McCoy, of Columbus, cousin of the groom; Mrs. Milton Richardson, of Atlanta; and Robert Stephens. The flower girl was Rosena Rahr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rahr, of Scarsdale, N. Y. They were all gowned in models similar to the one worn by the maid of honor.

Entering with her father, Charles Gates Eckford, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride was met at the altar by the groom and his father, Edward S. Sell, who served as best man for his son. The bride's dainty blond beauty was offset by her wedding gown of rosepoint and white de Venise lace posed over eggshell chiffon and taffeta, fashioned from the wedding gowns of her mother and her aunt, the latter being Mrs. Stiles Hopkins. Her eggshell tulle veil fell in graceful folds from a coronet of orange blossoms. Her hair was styled in a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a gold medallion encrusted with pearls that had belonged to her grandmother.

Mrs. Eckford, mother of the bride, was gowned in rose crepe with a draped bodice of fuchsia velvet. Her flowers were orchids. Mrs. Sell, mother of the groom, wore royal blue crepe with a sequin jacket. Her flowers were orchids.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Eckford entertained at a reception at their home on North Millidge avenue for the bridal party, members of the family and out-of-town guests. Throughout the home artistic decorations were used. The mantels and buffets were banked with lilies of the valley and white asters. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake.

Assisting in entertaining were Misses Mary and Sarah Hunnicutt, Mesdames Stiles Hopkins, John Hunnicutt, Deupree Hunnicutt, W. F. Bradshaw. Miss Betty Powell kept the bride's book.

During the evening the bride couple left for a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. The bride traveled in an imported model of English plaid worn with brown accessories. Her flowers were pink orchids. Upon their return they will reside in Macon.

Among out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. T. W.

Tift, Atlanta; Miss Mary Ella Yancey, Mrs. George Gillon, Mrs. E. F. Dempsey, Mrs. Robert Pringle, Miss Sibylla Pringle, Mrs. A. B. Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. Goodloe Yancey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yancey, Atlanta; Mrs. Howard Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hudson, Mrs. Ethel Dallas Hill, Mrs. Mary Jane Crayton, LaGrange; Mrs. E. J. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. William Lee, Miss Milton, Mrs. W. A. Hill, Mrs. W. Milligan, Mrs. Albert Hill, Mrs. Warner Hill, Mrs. O. W. Hill, Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fisher Jr., Baltimore, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McCoy, Miss Hannah Whitley, Mrs. W. E. Mosley, Miss Frances McCoy, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. William Foster, Jimmy Ramsey, Jack Ramsey, Macon; Mrs. Frank Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Orr, Miss Anne Irvin, Washington; Mrs. A. Mallory, William Mallory, Mrs. C. McArthur, Fayetteville, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKibbin, Gainesville.

Bride-Elect Feted By Mrs. Mitchell

One of the loveliest affairs of the week was the tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Stephens Mitchell at her home on Peachtree street for her cousin, Miss Aline Timmons, popular bride-elect. Miss Timmons will marry Sam Nelson Saturday at the First Methodist church.

Quantities of varied colored flowers were used as the decorations in the dining room. The table was covered with a lace cloth and handsome silver tea and coffee services were placed at either end. White flowers were used as the decorations and carried out the bridal motif.

Mrs. Mitchell, Miss Timmons and Mrs. Willis Timmons received the guests and presiding at the tea and coffee tables were Mrs. Douglas Wright and Miss Mary Rice.

Mrs. John Slaton Jr., and Mrs. Thomas McCleskey served punch and assisting in entertaining were Misses Smith, of Augusta; Isabel Couper, Sara Traynham, Clara Mitchell McConnell, Caroline McCarty, and Mesdames Russell Timmons, J. McAndrews Jones, of Montgomery, Ala.; Glascock Reynolds, of Augusta; Benjamin Bailey, Frank Powell and Harry Buice.

During the afternoon, several hundred guests called to meet the honor guest who is among most feted of fall brides-elect.

Friendship Class Elects Officers.

Friendship Bible class of East End Methodist Episcopal church met at the church with Mrs. Phil Haushalter and Mrs. Clarence Pierce joint hostesses.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. Clarence Pierce, president; Mrs. Phil Haushalter, vice president; Mrs. Tom Haynie, secretary; Mrs. Charles Timms, assistant secretary; Mrs. Roy Hubbard, treasurer; Mrs. Joe Goodwin, teacher; and Mrs. N. R. Jones, assistant teacher.

The retiring president, Mrs. Riley Davis, was presented with a pin.

Credit Women Meet.

Atlanta Credit Women's Club meets Friday morning at 7 o'clock in the Lawyer's club room of the C. & S. Bank building. Mrs. Catherine Jepson, fashion authority, will speak on "Fall Fashions."

Sunday the officers of the club entertained at a reception at the home of Mrs. Kitty Lofton on Lanier boulevard, honoring Mrs. John Stell, recent bride. Mrs. Stell is the former Miss Anne Porreca, and is second vice president of the club.

Miss Spradling, Robert Ferrell Wed at Church

The Park Street Methodist church formed the setting Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Myrtle Lucile Spradling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leslie Spradling, and Robert Bennett Ferrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Glenn Ferrell. Rev. Arthur Maness, of Austell, performed the impressive ceremony and a program of music was presented by Miss Mary Frances Simmons, vocalist, and Mrs. E. E. Aiken, organist.

The altar of the church was banked with fern balls and palms interspersed with candelabra holding burning white tapers. Floor baskets filled with white flowers completed the decorations. Ushers were John W. Grant and Luther P. Burroughs and the groomsmen were Thomas L. Spradling Jr., brother of the bride, and James Glenn Ferrell, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Frank Wilson Gill, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor. She was gowned in a street length model of wine velvet with which she wore matching accessories and a strand of pearls. She carried a bouquet of Rubrum lilies and Better Times roses.

The bridesmaids, who included Miss Lucia Moon, and Mrs. Charles Alvin Shelton, sister of the groom, wore gowns made like that worn by the matron-of-honor, and their flowers were Rubrum lilies and Better Times roses.

The lovely bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at altar by the groom and his best man, O. Walton Simmons. She was gowned in royal blue chiffon velvet designed along princess lines with which she wore a matching velvet turban. She wore navy blue accessories and carried a bouquet of white roses and valley lilies centered with a lavender orchid.

Mrs. Spradling, mother of the bride, was gowned in brown crepe with which she wore matching accessories and a shoulder spray of Tallisier roses. Mrs. Ferrell chose for her son's wedding a model of soldier blue crepe with which she wore black accessories and a shoulder bouquet of pink roses.

After the ceremony Mr. Ferrell and his bride left for a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., after which they will reside at 899 Barnett Place.

Mrs. Ferrell chose for traveling a model of royal blue crepe with which she wore navy accessories. A shoulder spray of orchids completed her costume.

Among out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spradling, of Ironton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Spradling Jr., of Gainesville; Mrs. Charles Alvin Shelton, of Williamstown, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. T. Hainey White, of Samson, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman Anderson, of Hartsboro, Ala.; Arch Ferrell, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Cliff Ferrell, of Seal, Ala.; and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Oliver, of Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Few Addresses Atlanta D. A. R.

At the recent meeting of Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R., with the regent, Mrs. John W. Rice, presiding, the program included an address on "The Constitution of the United States," by Dr. E. C. Few, pastor of the Druid Hills Methodist church.

A paper on LaFayette was read by Miss Martha Slaton and the musical program was presented by Mrs. R. B. Randall. Memorial exercises were held for two faithful members, Mrs. J. K. Otley and Mrs. H. M. Patty.

The regent named Mrs. Frank Baskin Jr., member of the Junior Group, as chairman of the Good Citizenship pilgrimage committee. It was announced that the former regents of the chapter would contribute a handsome silver tray as the ex-regents' prize for the benefit bridge party to be held at the Piedmont Driving Club Thursday afternoon.

The members of the chapter will assemble at "Craigie House" on October 11 with the members of the Joseph Habersham Chapter as their guests to listen to the radio address of the president general, celebrating the golden jubilee of the national society, the hour to be announced later. Following the address two dogwood trees will be planted on the chapter house lawn, honoring two charter members of the national society, D. A. R., Mrs. Aurelia Roach McMillan and Mrs. John M. Slaton. Mrs. James Stanley Moore, chairman of conservation, will present the trees and Mrs. Rice will accept them for the chapter. Mrs. J. P. Weible has been appointed chairman for the golden jubilee anniversary plates which carry out the colors of the society.

A new member welcomed was Mrs. Courtland Winn. A social hour followed, punch being served by Mrs. W. E. Beckham and members of the hospitality committee.

Raymond-Nation Wedding Is Set For September 21

Of interest is the announcement of the wedding plans of Mrs. Helen Carnegie Raymond and John Nation, whose engagement was recently announced. The ceremony takes place on Saturday at the Winship chapel of the First Presbyterian church on Peachtree street.

Dr. William V. Gardner, the pastor, will officiate at 5:30 o'clock in the presence of a limited number of friends of the couple. A musical program will be presented by Dr. Charles Sheldon.

Mrs. Raymond will have only one attendant, Mrs. Matthew Sledge, who will be matron of honor. Robert Nation, of Washington, D. C., will be best man for his brother and the ushers will be W. C. Ferguson, W. E. Jones, of Birmingham; Matthew Sledge and Belton Jennings, of Roanoke, Virginia.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Nation will leave for an extended wedding trip to the west coast and will visit Banff and Lake Louise. Upon their return here they will reside at 1460 Peachtree street and will be popular additions to the married set.

Prior to their marriage Mrs. Raymond and Mr. Nation will be honored at a number of parties. This evening Dr. Claude Griffin gives a dinner party at the Capital City Club for the couple.

Tomorrow evening after the rehearsal Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Sledge give a buffet supper at their home on Delwood drive for Mrs. Raymond and Mr. Nation.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. William Neal were hosts at cocktails for the couple. Mr. and Mrs. David S. Carnegie, of Detroit, Mich., parents of the bride-elect, arrive tomorrow to attend their daughter's wedding.

The bride-elect is a native of Detroit, but has spent the past 15 years in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. She has made her home in Atlanta since last spring. She received her education at Miss Liggett's School in Detroit, Mich.

Mr. Nation is the son of Mrs. William Nation and the late Mr. Nation, of Muncie, Ind. He attended Carnegie Tech, where he was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. He is a well-known young business man of the city, being connected with the J. M. Tull Metal Supply Company. He is a member of the Capital City Club.

Five Georgians, two of them Atlantans, yesterday were enlisted in the United States Marines and transferred to Parris Island, S. C., for training. They were James Howell Griggers, Griffin; Harmon Pitts Johnston, 876 Edgewood avenue, and William Harmon O'Farrell, 175 Clare drive, both of Atlanta; Logan Chester Greeson, Madison, and Jesse Terrell Cowan, Conyers.

The Marine recruiting station, room 612 Ten Forsyth Street building, is now accepting enlistments to bring the corps' strength up to 38,000 by the end of October.

MAJOR JOSEPH STUART TRANSFERRED TO ATLANTA
Transfers of Major Joseph A. Stuart from Cumberland, Pa., to Atlanta; of Major Michael Grimaldi from New Rochelle, N. Y., to Savannah; and of Captain John Robert Botsford from Washington to Savannah were announced in orders issued yesterday by the War Department.

SEVERAL BROTHERS IN BARNESVILLE GUARD
In Barnesville, Ga., Sept. 18. Several families of Lenoir county are well represented in the Barnesville Blues. Paul, Fred and Harold are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goddard have two sons, Gene and Milton; and Mr. and Mrs. Van Milner will say good-bye to their two sons, Copeland and James, when the soldiers leave Sunday. The Barnesville Blues were organized in 1861 soon after Georgia had seceded from the Union. Captain George M. McDowell was the first commander.

ALBANY GUARDS TO LEAVE SUNDAY
ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 18.—The Albany Guards, local machine-gun company, will leave Sunday for Camp Jackson, S. C. The company, under command of Lieutenant Harry Lutz, is encamped at the old CCC camp on North Jefferson street in the northern part of the city.

FORT OGLETHORPE CONSTRUCTION TO START
FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga., Sept. 18.—Construction work will begin here within the next two weeks on barracks, a recreation room, and a mess hall. It was announced here today by Colonel John Millikin, commanding officer of the Sixth Cavalry.

The War Department last week allotted $35,250 to Fort Oglethorpe for the construction program, which is expected to care for increased personnel at the post. Colonel Millikin said today that the new barracks will be used to house the new ordnance company which is being organized here, while several of the reserve officers who are now on duty here are also expected to be quartered in the new barracks.

Two units of barracks will be constructed, each able to house approximately 65 men. Colonel Millikin said. The new buildings will be erected adjacent to the hostess house on the post reservation.

SIGNAL COMPANY COMMANDER ARRIVES
FORT BENNING, Ga., Sept. 18. Captain James C. Pruitt, Signal Reserve, has arrived to take command of the 323d Signal Aviation Company, which is a component of the G. H. Q. Air Force. Probable duties of the company, one of the first of kind to be organized in the United States, will be to operate teletype machines, install and operate radio beams, operate radio towers, radio telephones, and air ground radio loops.

It is expected that this company will relieve a large number of air corps men of the 35th Air Base from ground radio, teletype, and other communications duties and enable them to devote more of their time to air combat units.

It now has one officer and 24 men, but will eventually have a strength of 71 enlisted men. Although no definite instructions have been received as yet, it is

SHE LOST A PENNY—GAINED AN APPETITE—Fifteen-month-old Barbara Ann Hill swallowed a penny, but no one knew when. It wasn't discovered until her parents noticed she was taking all her liquid food but no solids. An X-ray revealed the penny lodged in the throat in a peculiar manner, acting as a valve. The penny was removed yesterday and Barbara Ann is eating heavily.

Esophagoscope Removes Penny In Tot's Throat

Baby Enjoys First Full Meal in Nearly a Week.

Little Barbara Ann Hill goosed, laughed and jabbered her baby talk last night, her tiny tummy filled with its first good meal in nearly a week—all because she lost a penny.

Somewhat, some way the 15-month-old baby had gotten hold of a penny and, baby like, had put it in her mouth. She swallowed it, and the penny stuck in her esophagus.

Like some oddly fashioned valve, that penny worked. Barbara Ann drank all the milk and water she could hold—but four days ago her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hill, of Linville, Ala., noticed their daughter was eating no solid foods.

They took her to the family doctor, who made an immediate X-ray, and discovered a penny was lodged in the throat, preventing the passage of any solid food. Barbara Ann was brought to the Ponce de Leon eye, ear, nose and throat hospital in Atlanta, where with the aid of an esophagoscope the coin was retrieved yesterday.

Her daddy, an employee of the Alabama Highway Department, could not say how the baby happened to get the coin and swallow it.

She didn't know what had been going on, perhaps, but Barbara Ann's coos and peaceful sleep last night attested that she didn't mind losing the penny.

Half Pound Meat Serves 6 in this Macaroni Loaf!

A few minutes, and presto! This grand one-dish meal is ready to pop into the oven. Tempting flavors blend deliciously with tender, easily digested Mueller's Macaroni.

MACARONI, FAMILY STYLE
1 pkg. Mueller's Macaroni
1 cup bread-crumbs
2 cups hot milk
4 tablespoons butter, melted
1 lb. chopped beef, cut small
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 cans concentrated tomato soup
Salt and pepper to taste
Dash of Cayenne (if desired)

Cook Mueller's Macaroni as directed. Combine bread-crumbs, milk, butter, chopped beef and green pepper in mixing bowl. Line buttered baking dish with macaroni and pour in beef mixture. Bake in moderate oven 25 minutes—then place on hot platter. Heat tomato soup separately, season to taste, and serve as sauce. Serves 6.

Serve delicious meals and spare the budget—with Mueller's Macaroni. Mueller's uniformly thin walls insure quick, even cooking. An exclusive process removes excess moisture, so that it bulks up more and goes farther! Leftover meat, fish or vegetables are quickly transformed into tempting casserole dishes with Mueller's Macaroni. If your supply is low, order Mueller's today!

Crackers Stave Off Vol Rally in 9th; Win, 10-9, To Even Series

Home Run Record Is Set by Tigers

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers set a new major league record for home runs in consecutive games by getting circuit blows in both ends of today's double-header against the Philadelphia Athletics.

In 15 games played since September 4, the Tigers have hit at least one homer in each till. The former record of 14 games was shared by Detroit (1938) and the New York Giants (1935).

Big Hank Greenberg has homered in 11 of Detroit's last 15 games and his teammate, Rudy York, has hit for the circuit in five of the contests.

Oddly enough, York has hit four baggers in the four games Greenberg has failed to connect for round-trippers.

Best in Nation, Some Mentors Say of Devils

North Carolina Given Good Chance To Upset Wade's Eleven.

By WALTER LOGAN.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 18.—(UP)—A big majority of coaches in the Southern Conference pick Duke to win the group's championship for the third consecutive time, and half of them expect the Blue Devils to be the best team in the nation.

North Carolina, according to the coaches, is in the same class with the Blue Devils and may win when they meet November 16 in a game which annually divides this state into two warring camps. Tickets have been sold out since mid-July.

Wake Forest is the third favorite with coaches in North Carolina and Virginia. Coaches in South Carolina say Clemson should repeat its 1939 performance when the Tigers lost one game to Tulane, 7-6. William and Mary is ranked third by some.

Here's what the coaches have to say about their own prospects:

Wallace Wade, Duke: "We think we are going to have a good football team at Duke University this fall. However, there are too many uncertain elements in football for anyone to foretell with any degree of accuracy just how good a team is going to be."

Ray Wolf, North Carolina: "The prospects for the University of North Carolina's 1940 football team are fairly good. . . . Our reserve strength is much better and we are in a position to make replacements from time to time without the possibility of weakening our first team too much."

D. C. Walker, Wake Forest: "I believe Wake Forest will have a good team, but how many games we will win or lose I do not know and would not like to make any prediction."

Frank Howard, Clemson: "Clemson's chances depend almost entirely upon the development of a tailback and flankback to replace Banks McFadden and Shad Bryant. . . . We will have a hard-scraping outfit."

Carl Voyles, William and Mary: "William and Mary should have a somewhat better team this year than last, but we still may not win as many games as we did in 1939. We will have more reserve strength."

Rex Enright, South Carolina: "Carolina is stronger—much stronger—this fall, but so is the opposition. . . . We definitely are no nearer a championship."

John (Bo) Rowland, The Citadel: "The Citadel . . . is going to be the unknown quantity in the Southern conference equation this year, as our squad is green and inexperienced."

Glenn F. Thistlethwaite, Richmond: "The loss of Captain Ed Merrick, All-Southern center, and Bill Burge, end, may tell an entirely different sort of story (from the loss of one game in 1939)."

Henry Redd, V. P. I.: "The story will be written jointly by the medics, Dame Fortune, and by 25 new men who have no freshman glories to harass them."

Tex Tilson, Washington and Lee: "The Generals will be no stronger this year than their sophomore linemen."

Gene McEver, Davidson: "Our schedule has been lightened and we are in hopes of having a more successful season than in the last two years."

Clare Newton, N. C. State: "The North Carolina State Wolfpack will have to bank on more or less green country boys. . . . Therefore it is hard to draw a line on our possibilities."

That Play Again

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18.—If this corner had a hat, it would go off to H. E. Fenton, of 405 S. Lawrence street, Dublin, Ga.

It seems that Mr. Fenton is the only baseball fan who has shown more than a cursory interest in that highly intelligent bit of base running done by those Memphis Chicks in the third game of the Shaugnessy play-off.

Actually, the play ranks higher among "bonehead" happenings than does the Fred Merkle play. The only difference is that there was not nearly so much as a world series at stake. Merkle pulled a solo bonehead. Several Chicks were involved.

Here is Mr. Fenton's communication—

"Dear Jack:

"I quote from your account of Sunday's Chick-Cracker game: 'There was one out and the bases loaded. Veverka hit what appeared to be a sharp single to left. Marshall made a long run and took it on the first hop. Memphis runners held their positions.'"

"If that actually happened in the game, I can't figure why the runners held their bases. Had it happened so that sentence would have read, 'Veverka hit what appeared to be an easy fly-out to left,' and Marshall had played the ball as your article states, then I would know why the runners held their bases and also that Marshall had made a smart play. Am writing this, not attempting to criticize, but because I like baseball and your articles, but don't understand that play."

"Sincerely,

"H. E. FENTON."

Veverka's drive to left was just as the story described it. The ex-Cracker put the wood on the ball and Marshall made a desperate effort to retrieve it to keep more than one run from scoring.

Of course, none scored when he started a fast double play. Culley Rikard strictly is to blame for what happened. He started down to second and then ran back to first. Had he gone on to second, there would not have been a force play there. Gautreaux would have scored and Marshall simply would have made a force play at third.

Rikard's failure to run to second on an obvious hit—there was no chance at all for Marshall to catch the ball—simply caused the Chicks to qualify for the year's dumb award.

Marshall made a smart play and a great throw to start what ranks as the most unusual double play in the 101-year history of baseball—a double play on a sharp outfield hit.

Land of the Free

You may be assured that everything is all right in America. The odds against picking the right 11 or 22 players for All-America (after the season) are about 100 to 1.

The odds against picking the right 11 or 22 or 33 before the season starts are prohibitive.

So I repeat that everything is all right in America. Francis Wallace has named three 1940 All-America teams before the first kick-off zooms down the field.

The picking of All-America teams is a practice as futile as attempting a happy landing from the Empire State building with an umbrella.

It is in the current Post—his ideas of how the teams rate was presented here yesterday—that Wallace selects two Southern and a Texan for the mythical honors. Ison, Tech; Suffridge, Tennessee, and Kimbrough, Texas Aggies, are on the first eleven.

He Was Starved

That's quite a story they are telling about Georgia's Frank Sinkwich. A few weeks ago, Flying Frankie (he's tagged as the second best sophomore back in the country) was concerned about his physical condition.

Like Tech's mite, Johnny Bosch, he picked up a little excess.

Then Sinkwich reported for practice after a week-end and appeared fagged out after a short time. He was peaked.

Trainer Fitz Lutz quickly learned the reason. Sinkwich, a conscientious boy, had decided he would take matters into his own hands as to extra weight.

So he ate only ONE meal over the weekend.

So's a Greyhound

A southern football writer, on tour recently, visited Athens. In writing about Bulldog prospects, he mentioned Lamar Davis.

He wrote that Davis was slow but had lots of courage. Now everyone wants to know how fast the backs grow where the touring writer came from. They must be built along the order of Auburn's mythical Flat Ramsey, who does the hundred in 9.6 on ploughed ground.

If Davis is slow, so's a greyhound.

Georgia Coleman Is Laid to Rest

GLENDAL, Cal., Sept. 18.—(P)—Close friends in the sporting world joined relatives today at funeral services for Georgia Coleman, who once made Olympic diving history.

"She shall have lived to a great purpose if she can write on your heart and mine the value of great courage and determination, for there are dark times ahead for all of us," said the Rev. H. R. Shaffer, Presbyterian minister, in a tribute to the great aquatic star.

"Think of her personality, her smile and one hundred other things she was to us. Go back and be determined to borrow from her riches and add to our poverty."

The 29-year-old blond, who won many national and international diving honors before her sports career was cut short by infantile paralysis, died last week.

Will Harridge Is Prepared

For 3-Way Tie in American

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—(P)—President Will Harridge, closely watching the hectic American League pennant battle, fortified himself with additional playoff information today—"just in case."

President Harridge said recently that in case two teams finish with the same percentage, the president's office would arrange a special one-game playoff for the championship. This game would be played the day following the close of the season on a field to be determined by lot.

"In case of three teams finishing with the same percentage," Harridge said today, "the constitution provides that it will be decided by lot which two of the three clubs will play the first game. The place of this game shall be in one of the two cities of the contesting clubs, to be decided by lot. The winner of this game shall then play the third club, the city in which the game is to be played to be decided by lot. The winner of the second playoff will then be declared the league champion to compete in the World Series."

Jackets Ragged In Scrimmage; Pair Is Injured

Red Devils Make Varsity Look Bad; Goree Looks Good.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Coach Bill Alexander sent his Georgia Tech football players through their longest and hardest scrimmage of the year yesterday and the results could not be termed "good" even by the most ardent supporter.

In the first place, Bobby Pair, first-string wingback, suffered a knee injury upon being tackled after receiving a pass. He is expected to miss hard work for a week or more.

More displeasing to the coaches was the work of the varsity on both offense and defense. A hard-charging red-shirted eleven made the first stringers look bad almost all afternoon. It was only towards the end of the knocking session that the blues could rally their forces for a couple of sustained touchdown drives.

Before the scrimmage started, the varsity backs worked on pass defense and their showing was ragged. Then in the scrimmage the Red Devils completed five or six tosses for long gains.

The Blues didn't do so well stopping the Reds' running attack either. In fact, on the first play of the scrimmage, Davey Eldredge ran for 10 yards and on the second try, Pat McHugh got 20 more.

The whole trouble was because the Reds were blocking, running and charging harder and playing better football in general.

During the last 15 minutes of the scrimmage, however, the varsity perked up and drove for a couple of touchdowns.

Roy Goree's reckless line-busting was one of the few bright features. Once he broke through the middle, shook off two tacklers and scrambled 20 yards down the field before being halted.

Johnny Bosch threw two beautiful passes and Rob Ison and George Webb flagged them down. Charlie Samuels did some neat downfield blocking.

Pair's injury ran the Tech total of hurt knees to three. Joe Bartless, another wingback, and Paul Page, sophomore end, are also on the sidelines.

Coach Alex yesterday recalled the 1922 Tech-Notre Dame game in which 198 plays were run. The average for a game today is about 120.

Neither team used a huddle. Four numbers were called and the play started. The Irish ran 100 and Tech 98. However, each half was 35 minutes long.

So far, Georgia's Heyward Allen wins the "smallest foot" prize. He wears a size five-and-a-half shoe. Tech's nearest competitor is Goree who wears a size large.

Coach Alex believes that most of the best athletes have big feet.

Sewanee Gets Smart

(Editor's Note: This is the 12th of a series of stories dealing with prospects of Southeastern Conference football teams. Another will follow.)

By JACK TROY.

SEWANEE, Tenn., Sept. 18.—First chance he had, President Alex Guerry called in Jenks Gillem to take over the job of coaching football in the new scheme of things at Sewanee.

The chance came when Birmingham-Southern dropped football. Guerry and Gillem were classmates on the mountain back in the early nineteen hundreds. Jenks Gillem was never out of a job when Birmingham-Southern gave up. Sewanee beckoned. And Jenks went.

They say that Sewanee has succeeded from the Southeastern conference in so far as football is concerned, but none can say they are not doing wise in lightening up on the former load.

17 SOPHOMORES.

Of the 32 prospects, 17 are sophomores and only about five of those know enough or are big enough to be serviceable. Sewanee has only four tackles, including one who never played a game in his life until the freshman year at Sewanee. The guards are exceptionally light.

Sewanee doesn't have the men to play even as tough a schedule as the current one which includes Dartmouth and Vanderbilt in a row. Vandy, of course, is the only conference opponent.

The Tigers of the mountain top are coming back. The realistic philosophy of President Guerry is most refreshing. It has been a college with a past; Guerry intends to make it a college with a future. His creed is less a lie about the great teams of 1899 and more emphasis on making present games feature ones.

If Sewanee does anything in football in Gillem's first year—his lot is a tough one at the start—

Atlanta and Georgia boys will be all mixed up in it.

Dick McCauley, Atlanta, is a regular tackle. Charles Wiley, Atlanta, is a regular end. Graham Roberts, Atlanta, is a reserve end. John Roberts, Atlanta, is a regular blocking back, and Dan Greer, who rode a bicycle from Atlanta to the mountain top, is a good tailback despite his 145 pounds.

OTHER GEORGIANS.

A trio of fine players from other Georgia cities are: Marion Kerr, a guard from LaGrange; Henry Sandifer, a tailback from Brunswick; and Owen Sloughton, blocking back from Savannah.

Gillem wishes Sewanee didn't have to play Dartmouth just before Vanderbilt. The reserve strength doesn't permit two such contests in a row. But the schedule is so arranged and the Tigers will do the best they can—as always.

One of Coach Gillem's capable aides is Lex Fullbright. Line coach is Joel Eaves, Atlanta boy who starred at Auburn. Gordon Clark is athletic director. The coaching staff is a good one. Material is the big need. And, as said, Sewanee is not standing idly by. It is not expected, however, that

Teams Clash Here Tonight In Third Game

Nashville Tallies Six in Last Stanza To Rout Harris.

By JACK TROY.

SULPHUR DELL, NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 18.—The Crackers had to win a ball game the hard way tonight.

They finally broke the Vols' winning streak at 17 straight games, but it wasn't any fault of the Cracker pitching.

The Vols appeared to be hopelessly trailing. Then they rallied to score six runs in the ninth. Culler finally lined out to Malho with the tying run on base to end the game. The Crackers won, 10 to 9.

It was an amazing rally. The laddy that's known as Lu-Lu Harris—had gone a long g pitching brilliant baseball. He had allowed only six hits going into the ninth. Jinx Poindeuxer had to rescue him in the ninth.

SIX RUNS IN NINTH.

The big rally started when Culler led off with a double. Felderman, batting for Drake, flied to center. Mihalic grounded out, Glick to Besse, and Culler scored. Harris promptly loaded the bases when he walked Moser, Hockett singled and Dugas walked. George hit a single off the screen, cleaning the bases. Rocco doubled and Boken singled, scoring George and Rocco. Poindeuxer entered the game to pitch to Boken and he ended the game when Culler, up for the second time, lined to Malho.

Regardless of how the victory was accomplished, the Crackers broke the Vols' winning streak at 17 straight. It seemed for eight innings that it was to be done on a masterful job of pitching, but the ninth inning changed things considerably.

There was a parade of pitchers on the Nashville side. Ace Adams retired in the sixth, a badly beaten man. Russ Meers essayed to stop the Crackers but failed.

Conscription Bill Kills Club Dues

The secretary of the A. A. C. has made the following announcement concerning standing of members who will be called to the colors under the conscription bill.

All members who are in good standing will not have to pay any dues while in the city on furlough or on leave of absence from military training.

They will have the use of the club facilities as in the past but their dues will be waived while in the service.

Detroit Splits As Indians Win Double-Header

Ambitious White Sox Divide Two With Once-Great Yankees.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18.—(P)—Cleveland captured the first game of a double-header from Washington Senators, 3-1, today behind the six-hit hurling of Veteran Johnny Allen. The Indians' run all came on free passed issued by Southpaw Kendall Chase in the second inning.

Bobby Feller, who had pitched a full game Sunday, won the nightcap, 2-1, with a five-hitter, which returned the Tribe to first place by half a game. It was Feller's 26th triumph.

Beggs replaced Vander Meer in the 13th inning and retired the Phillies in one-two-three order to give Cincinnati a 4-3 victory.

Vols Good On Road as at Home; Atlanta Won 41, Lost 31 Abroad

Nashville's Vols, in winning the Southern Association pennant, proved one of the greatest road clubs in league history, winning 50 and dropping only 23 games. At home the Vols captured 51 and lost 24.

The composite standings released today by Howe News Bureau reveal that the Crackers won 41 and lost 31 games abroad, winning 50 and dropping 27 at home.

Birmingham and Knoxville each won one game all season in the Nashville park.

Atlanta won 9 and lost 12 games in season's play against Nashville.

Hawk and Todd Show Up Well In Bulldog Drill

Butts Lets Up on Boys To Stress Timing of Plays.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 18.—Georgia's gridiron hopefuls enjoyed a "holiday" today.

At least, it was like a holiday to them as Coach Wallace Butts let them through a light drill stress timing of plays and precision blocking.

There was considerable attention given to passing too. With long-legged Oliver Hawk, sophomore end candidate, as the outstanding receiver, Hawk has shown considerable promise. A 11 year as a pass receiver, and when the Kingsport, Tenn., boy gets a little more experience, that factor alone may boost him up a notch or two on the Georgia squad.

TODD RECOVERED.

Big Jim Todd relieved the minds of the Bulldog coaches with his throwing this afternoon. Too, all season there has been some doubt about whether or not he has completely recovered from a shoulder injury suffered last spring, but today he was heaving those bullet aces that made him one of the aerial threats of last year's freshman eleven.

While Coach Butts sent his gridders through the abbreviated workout, Red Keuper, Lee McKinney and Bobby Nowell, all counted on for heavy duty this fall, remained in the training room for treatment to minor injuries and illness.

FEW INJURIES.

Keuper's charley horse, suffered in yesterday's offensive scrimmage, is the worst injury of the three but he will be ready to go Saturday, when another scrimmage is scheduled. Nowell had a slight touch of malaria a couple of days ago and is being given a rest, and McKinney has a slight leg bruise. He could have gone today if it had been necessary, but he is a senior and has plenty of experience, so coaches ordered him to take it easy.

Cardinals Overpower Dodgers; Giants Drop Their 10th Straight.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds won their second straight National League pennant today by beating the Phillies, 4 to 3 in a 13-inning struggle as the second place Brooklyn Dodgers lost to St. Louis.

Southpaw Johnny Vander Meer, who pitched against Hugh Mulcahy for the Phils, won his own game in the 13th.

He doubled to left, went to third on an infield grounder and scored on Ival Gooden's fly to Rizzo.

The Reds took over first place on July 7 and were never ousted. They did not clinch the flag in 1939 until September 28, three days before the season ended, when they took a 3-2 game edge over the Cardinals.

The victory today gave the Reds an edge of 12 games over Brooklyn.

Three S. E. C. Teams Open Friday

Rebels, Wildcats and L. S. U. Tigers Open Schedules With 'Breathers.'

By The United Press.

Three eleven jump the gun on other Southeastern conference members Friday when they open the 1940 season against warm-up teams.

Harry Mehre's Ole Miss Rebels tune-up against Union University, of Jackson, Tenn., at Oxford, and Kentucky starts the campaign against Baldwin-Wallace, of Berea, Ohio, at Lexington in afternoon games.

L. S. U. meets Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, of Ruston, in Baton Rouge at night.

TOUGH FOR CATS.

Kentucky is expected to have more trouble in the first game than Ole Miss and L. S. U. The Ohio eleven is reported to be loaded with stars from the 1939 team which lost only two close contests.

Coach Ab Kirwan has two Wildcat teams with practically the same ability and plans to continue this two-team system, which was so effective last year. His entire line and two members of the backfield have two letters each, and the second team is composed of men with at least one letter each.

Dark-horse L. S. U. plans to experiment with her sophomores against L. P. I., while Ole Miss will give fans a circus in watching her two star backs—Junie

Death and Ruin Spread Dismal Wings Over England

WINGED DESTRUCTION Zooming through a cloud-flecked sky somewhere along the English coast, this German Heinkel bomber, type 111, carries its bombload of ruin toward some hapless objective—perhaps London, which during recent days has been battered mercilessly by Nazi missiles.

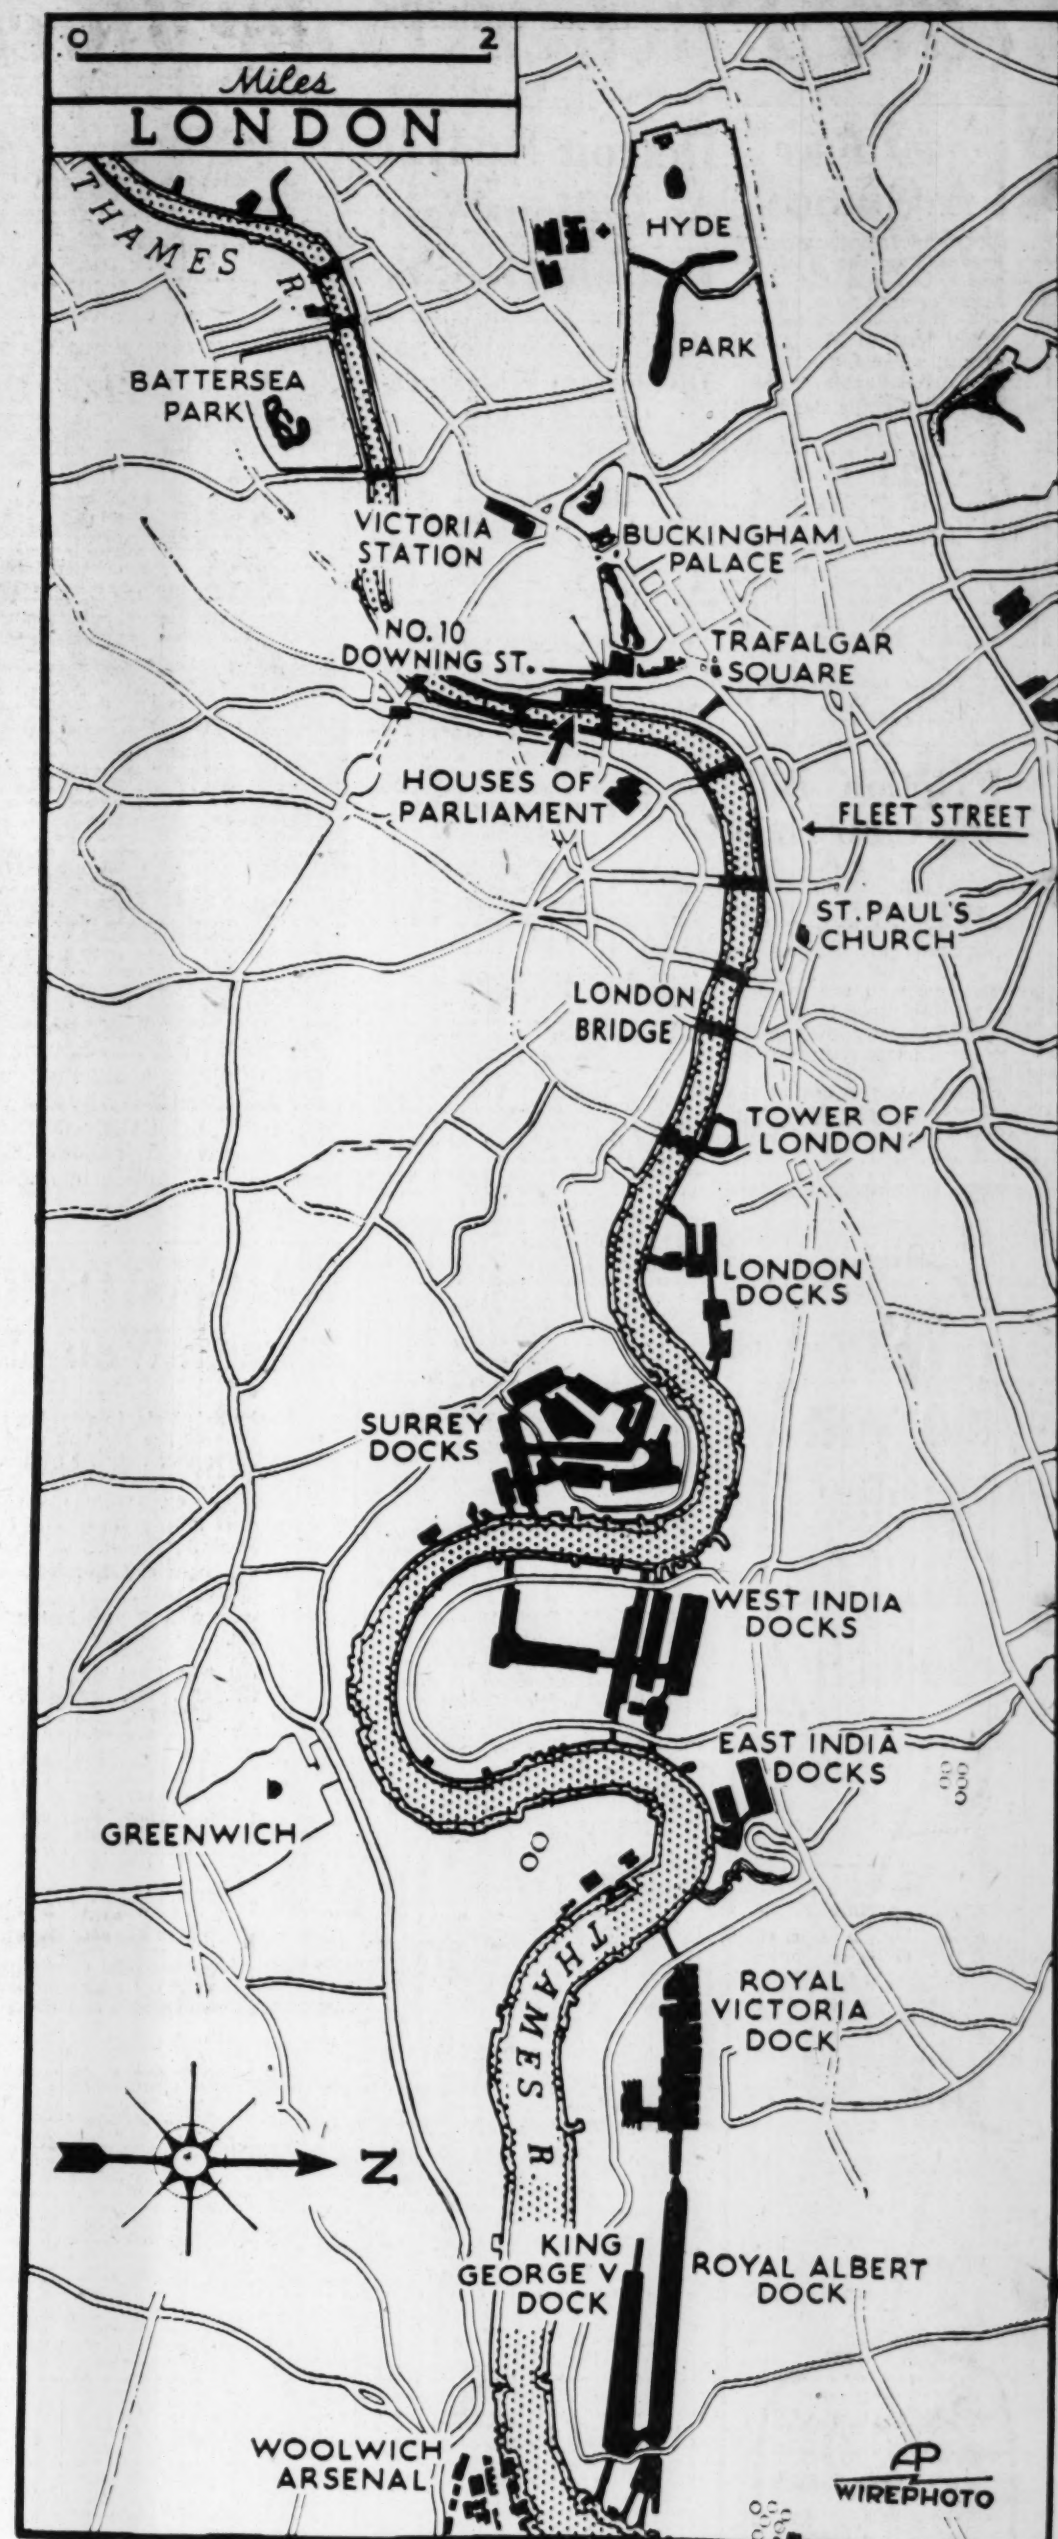

IT WAS A CHURCH Bombs are impartial things, making no distinction between military objectives and the places of God. This was a church in southeastern London until a German plane, caught in the glare of searchlights and harried by antiaircraft fire, dumped its cargo of bombs and hurriedly escaped.

FLAMES rage among commercial buildings struck by bombs in the vicinity of St. Paul's cathedral in London. Firemen are shown as they strove to bring the troublesome blaze under control. The famous cathedral, however, was not damaged in this deadly raid, that of Sept. 10.

CALLING CARD OF DEATH The papers have been full lately of stories of bomb craters, but do you really know what one would look like in your own front yard? Here's a close-up of one, snapped in London after a winged emissary of death had left an unmistakable calling card as proof that he had passed. A bomb dug the crater in a street of the southwestern district of bombed and battered London.

HERE THEY ARE You've read about them, and what's left of them, a great deal of late—Victoria station, Buckingham Palace, No. 10 Downing street, the Houses of Parliament, Fleet street, and the myriad docks down the Thames. Well, here they are, comprising the very heart of the Nazi's great target of London.

FIRE MARKS SPOT The flames came, set by bomb blasts, and painted this silhouette somewhere in war-buffed London. And the planes came, causing the bomb blasts—planes like Germany's newest dive-bomber, the JU-88 (oval insert above), which is produced in the Junkers works and is hailed by the Germans as their "most modern horizontal and dive bomber." It's been used over England in the terrible Nazi raids.

County Payroll And Workers On Increase

Salaries Will Total Quarter Million More Than in 1936.

Salaries paid out by Fulton county to a steadily increasing number of employees will total approximately a quarter of a million dollars more than in 1936, figures compiled for The Constitution in the office of County Commissioner Clerk Frank Fling revealed yesterday.

In a comparison of employees and their salaries over a 15-year period, it was found that since 1926 the number of employees has increased from 993 to 1,082 at the end of the first six months of 1940, and that the total salaries paid out in 1936 were $1,857,752 as compared with $1,042,059 during the first six months of this year only. Since July, nearly a score of additional employees have been placed on the payroll either temporarily or permanently.

Roughly, a table of employees and salaries since 1926 shows that there were only 894 persons on the county payroll then, receiving a total of $1,042,059 annually. Since then, the number of employees has never been below that figure and at the present time is the highest of any year in the county's history.

A peak of 1,024 employees was reached by the county in 1932, when they were paid $1,887,284. The depression came then and the number of workers dropped into the 900s until 1937, at which time the number crept above 1,000 and has remained there ever since. Each year from 1937 to the present time shows a few more employees added and at the same time the amount of the payroll increasing until in 1939 it totaled $2,050,024, the highest it had ever been—even topping the boom-time figures of 1928 and 1929 when the payroll roll was in excess of $2,000,000.

Figures on county employment before 1926 are not available because many of the department heads operated then on the fee system, the department head employing only as many workers as he needed and receiving for himself the remainder of the fees. Veteran county employees pointed out that when the fee system prevailed, department heads employed as few persons as possible to do the work.

DeKalb New Era In New Quarters

The DeKalb New Era, official newspaper of DeKalb county, yesterday moved its offices into new quarters on Atlanta avenue, near the courthouse square in Decatur.

The building not only furnishes office space for the news and business departments, but also is equipped with a mechanical department which will print the paper each Thursday afternoon.

Founded in 1888, the DeKalb New Era is one of the most progressive weekly newspapers in the state. Usually printing eight columns on six pages, it will increase its size to seven columns on eight pages.

Editor is C. Murphey Candler, who is assisted by W. Hugh McWhorter, managing editor; Alfred Kuettner, news editor; Mrs. Jan Nelson Hancock, society editor, and G. C. Hill, advertising manager. Lyman Overton is in charge of the mechanical department.

Unemployment Law Changes To Be Studied

Advisory Council Is Called To Get Proposed Amendments.

Proposed amendments to the state unemployment compensation law will be placed before the membership of the State Advisory Council at a called meeting to be held in Atlanta Tuesday, October 29, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of the council and representatives of the Unemployment Compensation Bureau.

The meeting will be open to the general public, Ben T. Huie, commissioner of labor, said.

Among other things, the proposed amendments provide that the duration of benefits for all eligible claimants shall be uniform—16 weeks.

Attending the meeting yesterday were T. M. Forbes, of Atlanta, chairman; J. O. Morgan, of Macon; Milton L. Pleewood, of Cartersville; L. L. Austin, of Atlanta; William H. Turner Jr., of LaGrange, all members of the advisory council executive committee.

Social security officials who were present but did not participate were Edward C. Tate, assistant regional representative; Frank Constance, regional attorney; and James H. McGinnis, regional representative. Others attending included Baxter Jones and J. K. Boatwright, of LaGrange.

Woman Learns Of Honor To Dad
The father of an East Point woman has been given the distinguished service award by the British government for heroism in the removal of trapped English troops from Le Havre harbor, France, it was learned here yesterday.

He is Captain Stephen Masson, of Glasgow, Scotland, father of Mrs. H. Q. Terrell, of 600 Spencer street, East Point.

Mrs. Terrell said she had heard from her father since the evacuation but that in no letter did he mention the award nor that his ship was involved in the operation. She said she learned of the citation in a letter from a relative who enclosed a clipping from a Glasgow paper.

Mrs. Terrell said her relative wrote that the only comment Captain Masson had made regarding the evacuation or the citation was that he thought all members of his crew should get the citation rather than himself.

Captain Masson also received an award for bravery in the last war, but Mrs. Terrell said she did not learn of it until six years ago.

Ticket Predicted For Independents

Predictions were made in political quarters yesterday that the recently formed organization of Independent Democrats would line up a ticket headed by Wendell Wilkie and Charles McNary and followed by Georgia's Democratic nominees.

Devereux H. Lippitt Jr., a member of the executive committee and president of the Fulton county club, said "It might be possible."

The Independent Democrats will hold a meeting in Macon September 27 in preparation for the November election.

Philip Weltner, of Atlanta, who was named temporary chairman of the group, was out of the city yesterday.

STRANGE—New and startling discoveries in Ohio about the sacrificial rites of the Mound Builders—America's vanished race—will be told by Willis H. Magrath, of the Society for American Archeology, in an interview on the "Strange As It Seems" program to be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

It is unknown just when the Mound Builders lived and occupied this continent, but modern "diggers" have established that their vast network of civilization was essentially as great as that of the Aztecs and the Maya.

GOOD NEWS—Fanny Brice, who keeps abreast of the current schoolyard fads by occasional meetings with Hollywood schoolteachers, will be starting her fourth straight year in the first grade when she cavorts as Baby Snooks on the "Good News" broadcast heard over WSB at 7 o'clock tonight.

Musical portions of the program will be furnished by Dick Powell, Mary Martin and Meredith Willson and his orchestra.

Program will include: "Moon Over Madison Square," Dick Powell.
"Katy Went to Haiti," Mary Martin.

MUSIC HALL—Never one to "shilly-shally" in inviting big names to share the precincts of the "Music Hall," Bob Burns will come through with Kay Francis, Frank McHugh, Lillian Cornell, and those surprising youngsters, Kenneth Browne and Billy Lenhart, during the program to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Music Malls and John Trotter's orchestra also will be featured in the broadcast.

Ken Browne and Billy Lenhart play every musical instrument from a bass fiddle to an accordion. They were on the "Music Hall" shortly after scoring their first film success in "The Underpump" with Gloria Jean.

QUIZ—Contestants will be given a chance to identify American cities by calling out the names of the sporting events which add to their fame, when genial Jim McWilliams brings another "Ask-It-Basket" program to the air to be heard over WGST at 7 o'clock tonight.

Contributing to the excitement will be another famous "Anything Can Happen" basket, in which contestants provide impromptu entertainment before the microphone.

Hair-Wave Foes Form
Foes of the permanent wave at Ajishita, a village near Osaka, Japan, have formed to fight western styles of dressing hair. An anti-permanent wave committee has stationed watchers, all women, at strategic points to spot offenders. When they find girls in curls they attempt to shame them into going straight home to iron their hair. They also fronn on western garb and gaudy kimonos.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—The morning until 10:50 o'clock is likely to be filled with feelings of optimism or disagreements with those you usually agree, and you may be strangely at odds with those around you. Between 10:50 a. m. and 6:00 p. m. is a much happier period, favoring new starts, agreements and understandings. The remainder of the evening should find you among congenial groups, favoring travel, visiting and arts.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The entire day and evening favors attending to old duties, dealings with older people and land transactions. After 1:30 p. m. favors affairs already started.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Changes may be highly appealing during the entire day, but they should be coldly analyzed first. You are likely to be influenced to take on new obligations without realizing how burdensome they will entail. Be especially cautious today.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—The entire day and evening favors new beginnings. An excellent day to put into effect thoughts and ideas that you have had in mind for sometime.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—The entire day and evening favors sociability, art, land dealings, dealings with older people. The day favors seeking favors, travel and new adventures. The best aspects of the day operate between 10:12 a. m. and 6:45 p. m.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—Get in your best work today. Work started today may lead to future happiness and success. The day favors social affairs, business and work of an artistic nature. An especially good day.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—If you plan to work in a conservative way, this is an excellent day for finances and business, dealings with people who labor, sociability, conferences and entering into new propositions. The best aspects of the day operate after 9:13 a. m.

October 23rd and November 21st (SCORPIO)—A showdown in old affairs, or dealings with older people previous to 3:32 p. m. are especially favorable. After 3:32 p. m. unlooked for benefits may be found in least expected quarters.

November 22nd and December 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—The entire day and until 10:30 p. m. favors seeking favors, work of an artistic nature and the entertainment of others. Social events are likely to be filled with happy surprises, and dealings with loved ones bring much joy. People who are strangers to you may develop into strong friends by some deed or word of yours today.

December 22nd and January 19th (CAPRICORN)—Previous to 6:19 p. m. favors dealing with energy, works of beauty, affairs which require a refined taste. After 6:19 p. m. inclines toward impatience, irritability and undue haste. Guard against quarrels, accidents and entering into new enterprises without due consideration.

January 20th and February 18th (AQUARIUS)—The period previous to 9 p. m. favors putting energy behind unusual projects or dealings with those who are out of the ordinary. After 9 p. m. may bring a feeling of depression and a tendency to look at the dark side of things.

February 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—The entire day and evening is apt to be filled with friction, especially with loved ones, or those whom you have found in the past to have smooth dispositions. An excellent day to relax, and earnestly seek point of agreement rather than argument.
